Phase 2 End Expected To Bring 'Social Compact'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's Phase 2 economic controls may be replaced by a "social compact" between big business and labor to restrain wages and prices voluntarily, a high Treasury Department official says.

What might result, Undersecretary Charles E. Walker said in an interview, is a self-regulating system in which powerful labor unions and businesses agree to hold the line on inflation. A government wage-price review board would watch over the system but could only seek voluntary compliance.

Emphasizing that he was expressing his own ideas on how Phase 3 might develop, Walker noted a similar stabilization plan was set up in the construction industry several months before Nixon imposed wage-price controls.

Management and labor in the construction industry finally agreed that wage-cost growth had to be slowed, he said, and both favored Nixon's self-regulating system. The construction plan is still in place, but wages and prices are subject to controls as they are with most industries.

Walker, an architect of Nixon's Phase 2 system, said powerful unions and businesses may go along with such a system because of the threat of government action to curb their powers. And such curbs may be the only alternative if a voluntary social compact is not agreed to.

There is a strong, psychological incentive for such a compact, Walker said. The process of going through a wage-price freeze, then controls, may be so wrenching that the nation's economic powers would realize that it is the only thing to do to hold back inflation, he said.

Walker said that as the economy expands and the demand for goods increases, shortages eventually may result if current controls remain too long.

"We're not going to have controls of this type," he said. "Neither do I think we can go back to complete hands-off."

Value-Added Tax Remains Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Treasury Secretary John Connally will discuss the value-added tax this weekend, but Nixon says he can't predict the outcome.

"We have not yet found a way, frankly, that we could recommend it to replace the property tax," Nixon told newsmen Thursday. "But, with the obligation to face up to reduce or reform property taxes, the Treasury Department necessarily is considering other methods of taxation."

Still, as Nixon spoke, administration officials were presenting a favorable view of value-added taxation to a government committee opening a study of the plan.

The tax, a form of national sales tax collected in stages, was put before the Advisory Governmental Relations Thursday in favorable terms by Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Robert E. Merriam of Chicago, commission chairman, said Nixon "said directly and unequivocally to me he had not made up his mind."

The plan described to the 24-member commission would involve a value-added tax of about 3 per cent, raising $18 billion. Of this, $5 billion would be used for income-tax rebates and credits to ease the effect of the new levy on low-income persons.

About $13 billion would be distributed to the states, on the condition that local residential property taxes for schools be dropped. These amount to about half the property taxes on homes.

The distribution could be on the basis of $1 for each $2 of state support.

Richardson said the tax could be made much less regressive, that is, easier on the lower incomes.

In addition, he said, states will need help if the Supreme Court upholds lower-court rulings that the financing of schools by local property taxes leads to inequities and is unconstitutional.

No More Concessions, Nixon Says

Next Viet Move Up To Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has drawn the line against further concessions to the North Vietnamese until they negotiate on his eight-point peace proposal.

"The next step is up to the enemy. Our proposal is on the table and it is going to stand there until we get a reply from them," Nixon told a news conference in his White House office Thursday.

Although Nixon said the other side has not yet responded to the joint U.S.-South Vietnamese proposal made public Jan. 25, North Vietnamese leaders and diplomats have been quoted as rejecting it. The formula for peace includes a cease-fire, mutual troop withdrawal, and release of war prisoners.

North Vietnamese spokesmen have insisted the United States abandon support of the regime of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu has expressed unhappiness over a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers that the United States remains flexible on details of a possible political settlement of the war.

But Nixon said he wanted to reassure the South Vietnamese president that "there will be no new proposals made unless it is a joint proposal."

On other matters, brought out in questioning, Nixon made these points:

Taxes—"There will be no increases in taxes this year." He denounced the property tax as regressive and said the only way the value-added tax could be considered as a source of school revenue is if its regressive features were removed.

In his State of the Union address, Nixon promised to try to find a way to relieve home owners of property taxes. There have been reports he plans to propose a value-added tax, a form of national sales tax that opponents claim bears heavily on the poor.

Busing—Nixon restated his opposition to busing "for the purpose of racial balance." However, he noted that some courts have differed from his views, and said he will confer with congressmen on the feasibility of a constitutional amendment to prohibit forced busing.

British Blackout Continues; Coal Strike In 5th Week

LONDON (AP) — It was cold homes, cold meals and candlelight for Britons today as power stations across the country turned off the electricity for up to eight hours a day.

With a nationwide coal strike in its fifth week and fuel supplies at power stations dwindling, blackout by rotation began shortly after midnight Thursday. The power was cut for three or four hours in one area, then came on again as another district was hit. At any given time, a third of the country was without power.

said a spokesman. Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and Princess Anne are in the Far East.

Scotland Yard was busy answering questions about failure of the traffic signals when its own lights went out. The House of Lords was blacked out as it debated the power crisis. The lights illuminating Big Ben, the giant clock atop Parliament, went out.

An estimated 80 per cent of Britain's 18 million households use electricity for some or all of their heating. Many others depend on coal, which is unavailable. Overnight temperatures were in the low 40s in London.

Housewives with electric stoves prepared meals to serve cold. Stores ran out of candles and flashlight batteries; many that had them raised the prices. Shops reported a run on gas lamps and kerosene stoves.

Antarctic Ship Runs Aground

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Norwegian cruise ship Lindblad Explorer ran aground in heavy seas in the Antarctic today. Chilean naval craft rescued her 120 passengers, most of them Americans.

The Chilean navy said the vessel was aground on Almarintazgo Beach in the Chilean Antarctic with some crew remaining on board. The 2,480-ton vessel had a crew of 68.

The vessel's owner, K. S. A. Explorer of Oslo, Norway, reported that the skipper, Capt. Bjarne Aas, and the radio officer remained aboard. The Chilean navy reported the ship awash.

China Trip May Open New Chapter, President Feels

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, while cautioning against great optimism about his fast-approaching China trip, said he hopes it will begin a new chapter of better communication and freedom from war.

"These are our hopes," Nixon told a news conference in his Oval Office Thursday as he disclosed he will leave for Communist China Feb. 17.

Asked whether his talks with China's Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai would be considered dialogue or negotiations, the President said:

quarter century, Nixon said, he expects his conversations with Mao and Chou "will be much longer ... than with the leaders of other governments that we have visited."

The President, who talked uninterrupted about his China trip for the first 15 minutes of his meeting with newsmen, said:

"As far as my agenda is concerned, there will not be a great deal of what I would call ... sightseeing. There will be some ... but we have both agreed that this visit is one, taking place as it does at this time, in which first priority must be given to our talks and sightseeing must come second."

There will be no announced agenda for the conferences, he said, but the Americans and Chinese will cap the week-long visit with a joint communique.

Summarizing his approach to the historic journey, the President said:

"This trip should not be one which would create very great optimism or very great pessimism. It is one in which we must recognize that 20 years of hostility and virtually no communication will not be swept away by one week of discussion."

2 British Soldiers Die In Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — A road mine presumably planted by the Irish Republican Army blew up a British army jeep near the border Thursday night, killing two British soldiers. And in Belfast a gunman shot Wednesday night in a fight with police died in a hospital.

This raised the death toll to 243 in Northern Ireland's religious-political warfare, including 37 this year.

Bombs also exploded in downtown Belfast and in the center of Armagh. British troops skirmished with bands of youths in Coalisland. No casualties were reported in these incidents.

The British Cabinet was reported weighing a proposal for new peace talks between leaders of Northern Ireland's Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority. But the titular leader of the Protestants, provincial Premier Brian Faulkner, took a hard line toward the only thing that might bring the Catholics to the table—relaxation of the internment without trial of suspected IRA guerrillas.

The Catholics and their representatives in the provincial Parliament, the Social Democratic and Labor party, have vowed not to participate in any talks until internment is ended. The British Cabinet reportedly agrees that internment must continue in force, but "we think we can tinker with it a bit" by allowing the release or trial of minor and political offenders, one official in London said.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Singer Nick Clooney filed suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Thursday seeking release from a contract to WPO-TV in Cincinnati, which canceled his television program recently.

Nixon, Mitchell Continue Attacks On Muskies Speeches

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

Richard Nixon and the man expected to run his re-election campaign have indirectly attacked Edmund S. Muskie as the administration's attempted blitz of the Democratic presidential front runner goes into its second week.

Neither President Nixon nor Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell mentioned the Maine senator by name Thursday as, in separate appearances, they kept alive the administration assault picturing Muskie as jeopardizing chances for peace in Indochina.

Nixon told a surprise news conference in the White House that various presidential candidates have proposed solutions to the Vietnam conflict that have gone beyond his own eight-point plan outlined in a nationally broadcast speech Jan. 25.

The President told newsmen that other proposals for peace could lead North Vietnam to decide it "might be well advised to wait until after the election rather than negotiate."

Muskie has called Nixon's eight-point plan a retreat of old ideas and offered a plan of his own.

Later, at a Republican fundraising dinner in Washington, Mitchell criticized Muskie by omission.

Mitchell, expected to give up his Justice Department post no later than mid-spring to run Nixon's campaign, praised Democratic candidates Hubert H. Humphrey and Henry M. Jackson.

Those two, and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana Mitchell told the $100-a-plate audience of about 500, have refrained "from doing or saying anything which could undercut the President or his position of negotiation, or encourage Hanoi to prolong the war in the hope of getting a better deal after election day.

"They have acted with high responsibility," Mitchell said, "and I take my hat off to them."

Muskie, who is in New Hampshire campaigning for the March 7 primary election, announced Jan. 25 his criticism of the President's eight-point plan and predicted it probably would not be accepted by the North Vietnamese. Since that day, numerous administration and Republican congressional leaders have zeroed in on him.

GOP National Chairman Robert J. Dole and Nixon's chief of communications, Herbert Klein, also attacked Muskie in separate speeches Thursday night.

Dead of smoke inhalation is Iona White, 131 Hayward Ave. Her husband Clyde, age 80, managed to escape the smoke-filled home. He was treated at Berger Hospital for burns to the forehead, brow and side of face.

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe revealed after a long investigation today that a cigar butt which had fallen into a stuffed easy chair in the living room started the blaze which alerted neighbors shortly before 6 a.m. Dense smoke which filled the house is blamed for the suffocation death of Mrs. White.

Amphetamine Production To Be Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of the stimulant drugs, amphetamines, will be cut by 80 per cent in 1972, the Justice Department says.

An order signed Thursday by John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, sets 1972 production quotas at 1,564 kilograms of amphetamines and 969 kilograms of another stimulant, methamphetamines.

Manufacturers produced 9,356 kilograms of amphetamines and 4,926 kilograms of methamphetamines in 1971, Ingersoll said.

The 1972 quotas are adequate to provide for estimated medical, scientific-research and industrial needs, lawful export requirements and establishment and maintenance of reserve stocks, the department said in announcing the cutbacks.

Amphetamines are used by drug abusers for the high they produce. Doctors sometimes prescribe them for diet control and to help persons stay awake for long periods of time.

The Justice Department said U.S. Surgeon Gen. Jesse L. Steinfield initially had recommended 40 per cent reduction, but proposed the additional cutback after he studied the problem further.

and his administration were anti-India during the recent war between India and Pakistan. "I can only say I was anti-war," Nixon said. "We did everything we could to avoid the war."
"At this point, we are going to do everything we can to develop a new relationship with the countries on the subcontinent that will be pro-Indian, pro-Bangladesh, pro-Pakistan, but mostly pro-peace."

Bangladesh-Nixon said the United States has not made a decision whether to recognize the new state of Bangladesh, formed from what was East Pakistan before the Indian army conquered it in December. He ruled out any decision before he returns from China in late February.

Security Leaks—The President said "we have a lot of circumstantial evidence" as to the source who leaked secret minutes on top-level U.S. discussions on U.S. policy during the Indian-Pakistani crisis to columnist Jack Anderson.

However, Nixon said "we do not have evidence that I consider adequate . . . to take to court."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Angry at moves by the White House and Congress to limit strikes, labor leaders say compulsory arbitration could lead to industrial warfare and federal economic dictatorship over both labor and industry.

"Compulsory arbitration as a method of ending deadlocks would hamstring both trade unionists and management," said the executive board of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department.

"Each side would be forced to weigh its demands against what we might feel would be acceptable to government—with the government's mighty hand, rather than the give-and-take of negotiations, controlling our actions," the union group said in a resolution due for consideration and almost certain approval today.

"This could result only in a controlled economy, with government deciding the level of wages as well as the level of productivity and profits."

Some AFL-CIO officials, holding their annual winter meetings here, predicted the law Congress passed Wednesday to force an end to the long West Coast dock strike might jeopardize a negotiated settlement that was reached before the law was passed.

High officials of the 13.6-million-member labor federation are also fearful that the momentum of passage of the West Coast dock strike bill might lead to approval of President Nixon's proposal for permanent legislation to restrict strikes in transportation industries.

"We fought the bill for compulsory arbitration in the dock strike and we will certainly fight the permanent legislation," said a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Massive Viet Air Strikes Made

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes pounded a 225-mile stretch of the western frontier from the demilitarized zone to the central highlands in some of the heaviest raids of the Indochina war, informants said today.
Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers and U.S. B52 heavy bombers launched about 400 strikes during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, the informants said.

The raids ranged over South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Warplanes struck at North Vietnamese infiltration corridors leading from the DMZ, Laos and Cambodia into western South Vietnam, at staging areas, base camps, supply depots and troop concentrations.

Their mission was to blunt the big enemy offensive which U.S. officers predict will come this month, just below the DMZ or in the central highlands and adjacent coastal lowlands.

About half of the raids were flown in South Vietnam, the heaviest since last August and September when U.S. air power helped counter a North Vietnamese push below the DMZ.

A total of 201 tactical air strikes were reported in South Vietnam, 32 more than were flown in the previous 24 hours. On both days half were flown by U.S. planes, the other half by the South Vietnamese air force, while almost all the missions in Laos and Cambodia were flown by American pilots.

In one raid on an enemy base camp in the central highlands, the U.S. Command said, helicopter gunships and bombers killed 25 enemy troops and destroyed 20 bunkers.

The command also announced that an Air Force F4 Phantom crashed Thursday night while on a mission against the Ho Chi Minh trail. The two crewmen were picked up by a helicopter this morning.

The Saigon command reported 23 enemy attacks during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today plus 38 government operations of battalion size or larger.

Communiques from the Saigon headquarters and field reports listed at least 29 South Vietnamese troops killed and 104 wounded. The South Vietnamese command claimed 149 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed.

Communist forces apparently trying to cut South Vietnam's busiest highway ambushed two U.S. convoys and encircled a government outpost, field reports said.

On Route 1, the north-south coastal highway, enemy soldiers firing rockets ambushed a U.S. convoy near the Hai Van Pass, about 20 miles northwest of Da Nang. The command said no Americans were hurt, and one vehicle was damaged slightly.

A second convoy was hit 239 miles to the south near Tuy Hoa by about 30 enemy troops firing small arms, automatic weapons and grenades. One American was reported wounded and two vehicles were damaged slightly.

Eighty miles north of Tuy Hoa, a battalion of North Vietnamese surrounded and attacked a 40-man government outpost, then clashed with reinforcements trying to relieve the outpost.

The South Vietnamese command said several hundred reinforcements drove off the enemy and killed 40 of them with U.S. air support, but field reports said the outpost remained under siege.

Initial reports said 12 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 15 wounded in the fighting.

Under Knight's measure, insurance companies would be required to provide up to $2,000 coverage for medical expenses and loss of income for their clients regardless of who was at fault in an accident.

It differs from other plans in that the injured person still would be permitted to sue the driver at fault for other damages.

Knight, a Fremont insurance man, said he has received wide support for his plan from lawyers, who have provided most of the opposition to no fault insurance, and from members of the insurance industry.

A bill introduced Thursday by Rep. Howard Knight, R-13 Canton, would require the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board to make public copies of its proposed regulations prior to a hearing.

Levitt said the board's failure to do so recently resulted in a 30-day delay of a case involving Toledo.

Levitt also co-sponsored with Rep. Keith McNamara, R-64 Columbus, a bill which would require the state school superintendent to compile a list of persons qualified to referee hearings of high school teachers appealing termination of their contracts.

Current state law provides for the Ohio State Bar Association to provide the list, but Levitt said "this is a voluntary association and is in no position to provide the names required."

Other bills introduced in the House would:

—Control the sale of hand guns.

—Prohibit the use of the drug diethylstilbestrol (DES) in any slaughter animal.

The only bill introduced in the Senate Thursday would require automatic sprinkler systems in all nursing homes. It was offered by Sen. Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland.

Staph infections range in severity from skin rashes to impetigo and, in rare instances, can be fatal. In 1968, a total of 174 persons including 17 children under the age of 1 died of staph.

The FDA and the baby doctors concluded after their meeting that the possible toxic effect of HCP bathing outweighs its benefit as a germ-fighter.

The NCDC report noted, however, that "collective experience of a number of investigators over the last 20 years has provided a large body of evidence that prophylactic (preventive) bathing of infants with hexachlorophene has been of value in conjunction with other measures" in controlling staph.

Vote, Mixed Marriage Laws Struck Down By Judges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In separate decisions that could affect millions of persons, federal judges have ruled in cases involving voter requirements in New York and Florida, mixed marriages in Georgia and public housing management in Nebraska.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge Jacob Mishler in Brooklyn struck down a New York State requirement that prospective voters in a primary election must have been registered in the preceding general election.

Holding that the right to vote was "inextricably tied to the right of free expression," Mishler on Thursday declared the section of the state's 73-year-old election law unconstitutional.

As a result, the state's June 20 presidential primary could attract millions of new voters, including some of the estimated 750,000 young persons between 18 and 21 who failed to register before last November's election.

An estimated 150,000 Florida residents were made eligible to register for the state's March 14 presidential primary as a result of the action of a three-judge federal panel in Orlando.

In a 2-1 decision, the panel held Florida's requirement of one year's residency in the state and six months in a county was unconstitutional.

But there was no assurance that newly eligible residents could be registered before the books closed as required at 5 p.m. today.

In Atlanta, District Court Judge Albert J. Henderson ruled that state laws against racially mixed marriages are unconstitutional and ordered the state not to enforce the laws.

The order Wednesday was in response to a suit filed last spring by a white soldier stationed at Ft. Benning and a black Clayton County woman.

In Omaha, the U.S. government's controversial model lease and grievance procedures for public housing were held unconstitutional by District Court Judge Robert V. Denney.

Pleads Guilty To Robbery

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—David Burks, a 20-year-old Vietnam veteran who allegedly held up a Springfield bank and lost most of the $34,000 loot gambling, pleaded guilty in federal court Thursday to charges of bank robbery and possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

FBI agents captured Burks in Florida 11 days after the Oct. 18, 1971 holdup of the Lagonda National Bank branch in Springfield.

Agents said his trail included chartered plane flights from Springfield to the Nashville, Tenn., area and then to Atlanta. He was AWOL from the Army at the time.

Only $1,700 of the loot was recovered. Law officials said they believe Burks, of Weymouth, Mass., lost the rest of the money gambling in the Bahamas.

Burks is being held in the Montgomery County Jail under $100,000 bond pending a presentence investigation.

"At this point, we are going to do everything we can to develop a new relationship with the countries on the subcontinent that will be pro-Indian, pro-Bangladesh, pro-Pakistan, but mostly pro-peace."

Bangladesh—Nixon said the United States has not made a decision whether to recognize the new state of Bangladesh, formed from what was East Pakistan before the Indian army conquered it in December. He ruled out any decision before he returns from China in late February.

Security Leaks—The President said "we have a lot of circumstantial evidence" as to the source who leaked secret minutes on top-level U.S. discussions on U.S. policy during the Indian-Pakistani crisis to columnist Jack Anderson.

However, Nixon said "we do not have evidence that I consider adequate . . . to take to court."

School Rule Protested

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Some 4,000 marchers, stomping their feet, chanting slogans and singing songs, have protested a federal court decision ordering the merger of Richmond schools with those of two suburban counties.

The crowd assembled in sub-freezing temperatures Thursday and staged their march around the Virginia Capitol where the General Assembly is in session.

The demonstrators had hoped to meet with Gov. Linwood Holton, but the governor went to an out-of-town plant dedication.

The marchers were protesting an order by U.S. District Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. for the merger of the predominantly black schools of Richmond with the overwhelmingly white schools of Henrico and Chesterfield counties.

Although Merhige had ordered the consolidation to take effect in September, the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has granted a stay pending appeals of the Merhige ruling.

Volpe Will Speak At Republican Dinner

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Transportation John Volpe will speak tonight at the Hamilton County Republican party's Lincoln Day dinner.

The secretary will also inspect Cincinnati's Alcohol Safety Action Project program, one of 35 federally financed treatment centers for habitual drunken drivers.

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes pounded a 225-mile stretch of the western frontier from the demilitarized zone to the central highlands in some of the heaviest raids of the Indochina war, informants said today.

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers and U.S. B52 heavy bombers launched about 400 strikes during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, the informants said.

The raids ranged over South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Warplanes struck at North Vietnamese infiltration corridors leading from the DMZ, Laos and Cambodia into western South Vietnam, at staging areas, base camps, supply depots and troop concentrations.

Their mission was to blunt the big enemy offensive which U.S. officers predict will come this month, just below the DMZ or in the central highlands and adjacent coastal lowlands.

About half of the raids were flown in South Vietnam, the heaviest since last August and September when U.S. air power helped counter a North Vietnamese push below the DMZ.

A total of 201 tactical air strikes were reported in South Vietnam, 32 more than were flown in the previous 24 hours. On both days half were flown by U.S. planes, the other half by the South Vietnamese air force, while almost all the missions in Laos and Cambodia were flown by American pilots.

In one raid on an enemy base camp in the central highlands, the U.S. Command said, helicopter gunships and bombers killed 25 enemy troops and destroyed 20 bunkers.

The command also announced that an Air Force F4 Phantom crashed Thursday night while on a mission against the Ho Chi Minh trail. The two crewmen were picked up by a helicopter this morning.

The Saigon command reported 23 enemy attacks during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today plus 38 government operations of battalion size or larger.

Communiques from the Saigon headquarters and field reports listed at least 29 South Vietnamese troops killed and 104 wounded. The South Vietnamese command claimed 149 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed.

Communist forces apparently trying to cut South Vietnam's busiest highway ambushed two U.S. convoys and encircled a government outpost, field reports said.

On Route 1, the north-south coastal highway, enemy soldiers firing rockets ambushed a U.S. convoy near the Hai Van Pass, about 20 miles northwest of Da Nang. The command said no Americans were hurt, and one vehicle was damaged slightly.

A second convoy was hit 230 miles to the south near Tuy Hoa by about 30 enemy troops firing small arms, automatic weapons and grenades. One American was reported wounded and two vehicles were damaged slightly.

Eighty miles north of Tuy Hoa, a battalion of North Vietnamese surrounded and attacked a 40-man government outpost, then clashed with reinforcements trying to relieve the outpost.

The South Vietnamese command said several hundred reinforcements drove off the enemy and killed 40 of them with U.S. air support, but field reports said the outpost remained under siege.

Initial reports said 12 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 15 wounded in the fighting.

'No Fault' Insurance Plan Pushed In Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Howard Knight, R-13 Rising Sun, has introduced legislation which would require auto insurance companies to provide "no fault" coverage in Ohio.

Knight's bill was among 13 offered in the House during a skeleton session Thursday.

Under Knight's measure, insurance companies would be required to provide up to $2,000 coverage for medical expenses and loss of income for their clients regardless of who was at fault in an accident.

It differs from other plans in that the injured person still would be permitted to sue the driver at fault for other damages.

Knight, a Fremont insurance man, said he has received wide support for his plan from lawyers, who have provided most of the opposition to no fault insurance, and from members of the insurance industry.

A bill introduced Thursday by Rep. Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton, would require the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board to make public copies of its proposed regulations prior to a hearing.

Levitt said the board's failure to do so recently resulted in a 30-day delay of a case involving Toledo.

Levitt also co-sponsored with Rep. Keith McNamara, R-64 Columbus, a bill which would require the state school superintendent to compile a list of persons qualified to referee hearings of high school teachers appealing termination of their contracts.

Current state law provides for the Ohio State Bar Association to provide the list, but Levitt said "this is a voluntary association and is in no position to provide the names required."

Other bills introduced in the House would:

- Control the sale of hand guns.
- Prohibit the use of the drug diethylstilbestrol (DES) in any slaughter animal.

The only bill introduced in the Senate Thursday would require automatic sprinkler systems in all nursing homes. It was offered by Sen. Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland.

Edison's Anniversary

Thomas Alva Edison, perhaps the greatest inventor America will ever see, was born 125 years ago — on Feb. 11, 1847. The anniversary of his birth deserves to be more widely observed than it has been in the past. Edison labored mightily to improve the living standards of the world.

No single individual has made a greater contribution to that end.

The electric light is only one of hundreds of inventions credited to his facile brain. In all, Edison was granted more than 2,000 patents.

Never interested in making money except as possession of it enabled him to engage in more and more experiments, Edison's achievements were so prodigious that he nevertheless left an estate of $40 million.

How Marxists Play Game

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

You can't beat Marxist book-keeping. It wasn't so long ago that the Beraden organization of the Kennecott Copper Company in Chile sold 51 per cent of its El Teniente mine to the Chilean government, retaining 49 per cent and taking a management contract to operate the property and carry out an expansion program. In the nature of arithmetic the continuing management could have done nothing for the mine that would not have benefited the dominant Chilean interests more than the minority American position. Even if salaries and expense accounts had been exorbitant the money would still have gone to Chileans, for, in 1971, of the 10,000 mine employees only two were American citizens.

Although El Teniente was, in every important way, already a Chilean enterprise, President Salvador Allende's Marxist government has confiscated the property in toto along with all other mineral resources in Chile. The Kennecott 49 per cent interest has been valued at more than $150 million. In addition, Kennecott holds almost $100 million in El Teniente notes. The Chilean government had a perfect right to take over the mine under its 1971 law of expropriation, but the same law states that "appropriate compensation must be paid."

How did the Allende government go about taking the property without compensation? It did it by reducing the book value of the company from a plus figure of $318,800,000 to a company liability of $310 million. Some of the phrases invoked are interesting. "Re-evaluation of properties" sliced $198 million of the book value. "Defective condition of the mine" took away $20 million. In addition to this, the Allende figure-jugglers simply proclaimed that Kennecott had made $410 million in "excess profits" out of the mine, which leads to Allende's claim that the Americans must return $310 million to the government for sins that weren't sins when they were committed, inasmuch as dividends had always been paid in accordance with Chilean law. The Chilean government got the same dividends, incidentally.

Kennecott's protest against decapitation by bookkeeping has been restrained and dignified. At the time of the sale of 51 per cent of the stock to the Chilean government in 1967, Kennecott signed an agreement for expanding El Teniente's productive capacity by 55 per cent, or from 180,000 tons of copper per year to 280,000 tons. The cost was set at more than $230 million, with $92 million coming from a Kennecott loan and $110 million being advanced by the Export-Import Bank. The remainder of the development money — $37 million — was contributed by the Chilean Copper Corporation. We are asked to believe that expenditures over four years resulted in a "defective condition of the mine!"

Well, if the mine was "defective," who left it that way? Chileans had been trained to fill managerial, professional and technical positions throughout the whole El Teniente organization. The 51 per cent government ownership guaranteed that policies must be set in the interests of Chile. Frank Milliken, the Kennecott president, sounds almost plaintive when he says that "the creation of El Teniente Mining Company was designed to meet the aspirations of the Chilean people to participate directly in developing their country's most important natural resource, copper."

Oh, well, the expropriation without compensation was in the cards. Marxists simply play the game that way. We can be sorry for Kennecott, but the real anger of this column is directed not at Chilean Marxists but at those American businessmen who, despite what has just happened in Chile, continue to look for killings by asking capitalist governments to back their undertakings in various other nations under Marxist control. It is you and me, the American taxpayers, who will be called to foot the bill when (through U.S. government compensation to sheared investors) our equities in Communist enterprises are wiped out.

If we can't learn from Allende, we'll never learn from anyone else.

Be sure to think out how you can best use your creative capabilities so they can serve both humanity generally as well as yourself in particular. Rise above fear.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Ideal day to think over some new plan that will be good for both you and associates and to get it rolling satisfactorily. Sit down with powerful persons and talk over new ideas. Help the downtrodden today, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
You have every opportunity to add to present activities in a way that will bring more happiness into your life. Write to those out-of-town associates and find out what their ideas are. Stop feeling sorry for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
You have an opportunity today to get much accumulated work done, also to start some new project that is worthwhile, so get busy early. Out to whatever is pleasurable with loved one later in the day. Keep smiling.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
Ideal day to sit down with partners and talk over the right course of action for the future. Anything of a civic nature can be handled well now. Make this an active, happy day, p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
You get the aid of others now for some new and workable plan you want to put in motion soon. You have excellent taste and can make your wardrobe truly charming, modern. Do something constructive about that artistic talent you have, also.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
A day to forget dull routines and have a delightful time as you most desire. People who like you can be most helpful to you now. They understand your finest traits and appreciate them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
Ideal day to make improvements around your house, establish more harmony with kin and increase happiness there. Do all those things that will start an upturn in your life. Don't forget to pay important bills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Get busy ironing out rough spots in your daily routines so they become more profitable and easier to manage. Arrive at the point of congeniality with all your friends. A happier life is possible for you in the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
You can improve your monetary affairs considerably through your dealings with big and important people today, or in p.m. Make improvements to property and other assets you have. Get out to see that good friend in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You are now able to get personal life on a more satisfactory plane, so make an early start. Entertain or be entertained as best suits you. Plan a new wardrobe that brings out your finest features.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
You can now do those things that please you most, so make your plans early and follow through. The future can be infinitely better. Have those private meetings with others that are just your cup of tea.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
Ideal day to gab about with persons you like who admire you. You will get right results. Some special aim can be attained if gone after with energy. Try to emulate Honest Abe.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those very talkative young people who will make a great deal of sense. Will be successful in life because the nature combines the idealistic and the practical. Others will find it difficult to fool your youngster, who forever makes plans, then carries through in a positive fashion. Give as fine an education as you can afford and much success will follow.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My husband thought he was having a heart attack and went directly to a hospital.

The doctors said his quick action probably saved his life because it turned out that he did have a coronary attack.

Could this be helpful to your readers?

Mrs. A.C.F., III.

Dear Mrs. F.:

Your husband's judgment was sound. To go directly to a hospital, especially if a doctor is not immediately available, is the sensible thing to do when anyone is in great distress.

Early recognition of a heart attack and the beginning of active treatment are now recognized as two of the most important factors in recovery. It is estimated that more than 500,000 people in America have fatal heart attacks each year because they did not reach their doctor or a hospital in time.

Physicians and hospitals are now concentrating on methods of reducing these alarming statistics. A nationwide program is in active progress to bring the patient to the hospital earlier, or to bring life-saving equipment to him with utmost speed.

A program known as Early Coronary Care Systems is being established to administer on-the-spot, life-saving treatment and to deliver the patient to the Intensive Coronary Care Unit of a nearby hospital.

Mobile automobile units are directed by hospitals by two-way communication system.

The minutes saved are of vital importance in sparing the lives of heart attack victims.

Emergency calls bring out these units, which are staffed with highly trained physicians and specialized equipment. Immediate intensive treatment in the mobile unit takes place en route to the hospital.

More than 50 such units are already in active work in major cities all over the United States. Each one has reported the most encouraging statistics.

It is hoped that every community, no matter how small, will take advantage of these programs and set up a similar system.

A number of leading pharmaceutical manufacturers have created the Advance Coronary Treatment Foundation whose purpose is to show local groups how to set up the Early Coronary Care Program. Films and literature are available through the American Heart Association.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) -- Among the concerns of Americans with a love for what they feel is the traditional way of life is the fact that farming has taken on the corporate form. How sad, they say, that the family farm is disappearing.

Lost along with it, they fear, are the wholesome qualities of a strong family life, thrift, independence, individuality, responsibility, hard work and a respect for property and person.

The major flaw in this point of view is that it assumes corporate farms and family farms are the antithesis of each other. They aren't. Some 75 per cent of corporate farms are family owned.

Moreover, according to a man who should know, these fears are partially based on an incorrect assumption: that the important factor in the family farm when in reality it is the farm family.

Those virtues, according to Walter Penn, are not lost because of the corporate form, which really is evidence only of a more stable, businesslike operation, partially necessitated by the fact that a 320-acre Iowa farm, for example, might have assets of $225,000.

Farm families change, of course, says Penn. But they remain constant too. Those old virtues remain. A family farm that incorporates does not suddenly involve a farm family of employees and executives. The old relationship remains.

Penn, who was born on a farm and who is now responsible for close to $800 million in farm loans, has watched closely the changes that have occurred in the past 30 years or so and is far more impressed than disappointed.

As vice president of Equitable Life Assurance Society he has found a tremendous source of investment—steady, reliable, good collateral. Because of the depression of the '40s, Equitable became the reluctant owner of 8,000 farms by 1949. It owns none now.

Moreover, farm loans involve almost no defaults. Farm families pay back steadily, and many of the farm once heavily mortgaged are now free and clear of debt. Of U.S. farmland worth $220 billion, only $30 billion is mortgaged.

He maintains that the future of farming as a solid, businesslike operation with profit potential is excellent. And Prudential Insurance must think so too because it has $1.4 billion invested in farm loans.

During the evolution of the factory farm, which is really what many people have in mind when they refer to the corporate farm, a discovery was made: Bigness reaches a point of diminishing returns.

Once it was thought that the more acreage under cultivation the greater the economies of volume. But more than a few huge ventures have learned that this wasn't always so.

During recent years Penn has watched corporate farms of 5,000 to 10,000 acres run into severe problems of inefficiency that in effect destroyed them. Some have since been dissolved.

"There is a limit to how much land can be operated efficiently," he says. "A farmer must have an interest in the land, especially an equity interest; he can't merely be an employee working regular hours."

A farmer, he maintains, is successful because of the amount of extra effort he is willing to put into his job, work that a paid employee of a large farm wouldn't be inclined to use, at least without added compensation.

"A farmer with an interest in the land, because he owns it or owns the crop, will do the work when it has to be done. What time it takes to do the job is made available."

Nevertheless, he feels, today's farmer lives a better life than did his father. He doesn't work as hard, and he enjoys more benefits. He is more efficient and a better businessman, an opinion buttressed by statistics showing three farmers can now feed 100 people.

The farm family, Penn maintains, is not just a great investment. "It is the backbone of American agriculture." Still.

15 YEARS AGO

A contest was launched to name "Mrs. Circleville" from among area homemakers. It was the 19th annual contest of this kind sponsored by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

State health officials reported the number of rabies cases in Hocking County had reached a point here it was a state of emergency for that area: Ten cases were reported in 1956. Pickaway Counties had received reports of rabid animals along the county's southeastern border where it adjoins Hocking County.

A son born to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speakman was the first baby of February born in Pickaway County. The infant made his appearance the evening before the groundhog made his.

Samuel Gearhart, a school boy who played coronet with the Circleville band and was a former crony of Ted Lewis, was reported a successful man at age 70 in 1957 when he was named vice-president and general manager of Northwest Arkansas Times in Fayetteville. He had left Ohio at age 19 to travel to the Southwest with friends and start a newspaper, even to the point of finishing construction of the building to house the news plant.

A one-day political "revolution" in Circleville and Pickaway County saw members of local Boy Scout troops taking over the offices of mayor, city council, policemen, firemen, county commissioners, sheriff, county engineer and other officials. The junior mayor for the day was Paul Saunders, Chief of Police Andy Lorentz, Fire Chief Garry Winner, Municipal Judge Bob Caudill, Superintendent of City Schools Bill Wyatt, registrar of motor vehicles Mike Houghton, Probate Judge Steve Yost and Prosecutor Jeff Dunlap.

A full page ad in the Herald proclaimed "Tom Wilson, Get Well Soon. Circleville Needs You." It was signed: "Your Many friends and citizens of Circleville who want you well again and back at your desk." Wilson, publisher and editor of the Herald since 1935, died in University Hospital, Columbus, shortly after the ad appeared and 10 days before his 65th birthday.

Pickaway County's new, sparkling library-on-wheels was put into operation. It was the third which the county purchased and cost approximately $10,000. The first bookmobile was put to use here in 1938 on an experimental basis. This made Pickaway County one of the first in Ohio to have a traveling library.

A human skull with a hole in the top center of the forehead was found washed up on a bank of the Scioto River. It was discovered by 24-year-old Richard Loveenshimer near a boat landing at his home on Old Canal Road.

A Norfolk and Western freight train smashed into an unoccupied auto at the W. Main St. crossing while the driver, standing at a safe distance, watched. The man noted that he had wanted to turn north on Western Ave. but had bypassed the street and drove tracks after his turn. His wheels became jammed between the rails and could not be freed before the train came down on it.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There's much to be done at 61.

But with my 61st birthday looming on the horizon, I feel pretty much inclined to relax and let the other fellow do it. If a man hasn't been able to reform the world in 60 years, it is only wisdom to pass the problem on to other hands.

Frankly, right now I'd rather float along with the world than fight it. I feel like the guy who rode over Niagara Falls in a big rubber ball. He didn't change them—but he did survive them. That's my goal, too.

Being 61 doesn't call for much celebrating. It's pretty much of a blah birthday, just another niche and foothold in a long climb up the mountain.

There aren't many notable days in a man's life really. They are the day he is born, the day he first goes to kindergarten, the day he first puts on long pants, the day he gets his first real job, the day he marries, the day his first child is born, any day he pays off a mortgage, the day he retires and the day he dies.

Oh, yes, and the day his father tells him about sex. This day didn't take long in my case.

"Son, your mother thinks it's time I told you about sex," my father said unexpectedly.

"What do you know about it?" "Well, I know a little boy isn't supposed to get a little girl in trouble," I said. My father thought that over for a moment.

"Well," he conceded, "I guess that's about all you need to know. But if you do get one in trouble, come and tell your Dad about it first."

As it turned out, I never had to bend Dad's ear.

No great illumination dawned on a man at 61. He can see little or perhaps no farther into the human forest. It is a betwixt and between age.

It is a time when a man remembers passion but now feels he'd rather be in the throes of serenity.

He retains his sense of humor, but now every new joke he hears is an echo of an old one heard before.

It takes him 15 minutes longer to get up in the morning and go through the motions of readying himself to face another day.

There are at least three kinds of food he enjoyed at 40 that he now avoids because they make him burp.

He has almost lost his fear of losing his job. They wouldn't turn a guy out at 61, would they? Or would they?

His terrors about his errors lessen too. At 61 he has too much caution—and too little energy—to make any major new mistakes.

Above all, he is glad that if the world goes to hell from now on they can't blame him. He isn't in the driver's seat. He is only going along for the ride—and happy to be healthy enough to enjoy the view.

Edison's Anniversary

Thomas Alva Edison, perhaps the greatest inventor America will ever see, was born 125 years ago — on Feb. 11, 1847. The anniversary of his birth deserves to be more widely observed than it has been in the past. Edison labored mightily to improve the living standards of the world.

No single individual has made a greater contribution to that end.

The electric light is only one of hundreds of inventions credited to his facile brain. In all, Edison was granted more than 2,000 patents.

Never interested in making money except as possession of it enabled him to engage in more and more experiments, Edison's achievements were so prodigious that he nevertheless left an estate of $40 million.

How Marxists Play Game

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

You can't beat Marxist book-keeping. It wasn't so long ago that the Beraden organization of the Kennecott Copper Company in Chile sold 51 per cent of its El Teniente mine to the Chilean government, retaining 49 per cent and taking a management contract to operate the property and carry out an expansion program. In the nature of arithmetic the continuing management could have done nothing for the mine that would not have benefited the dominant Chilean interests more than the minority American position. Even if salaries and expense accounts had been exorbitant the money would still have gone to Chileans, for, in 1971, of the 10,000 mine employees only two were American citizens.

Although El Teniente was, in every important way, already a Chilean enterprise, President Salvador Allende's Marxist government has confiscated the property in toto along with all other mineral resources in Chile. The Kennecott 49 per cent interest has been valued at more than $150 million. In addition, Kennecott holds almost $100 million in El Teniente notes. The Chilean government had a perfect right to take over the mine under its 1971 law of expropriation, but the same law states that "appropriate compensation must be paid."

How did the Allende government go about taking the property without compensation? It did it by reducing the book value of the company from a plus figure of $318,800,000 to a company liability of $310 million. Some of the phrases invoked are interesting. "Re-evaluation of properties" sliced $198 million of the book value. "Defective condition of the mine" took away $20 million. In addition to this, the Allende figure-jugglers simply proclaimed that Kennecott had made $410 million in "excess profits" out of the mine, which leads to Allende's claim that the Americans must return $310 million to the government for sins that weren't sins when they were committed, inasmuch as dividends had always been paid in accordance with Chilean law. The Chilean government got the same dividends, incidentally.

Kennecott's protest against decapitation by bookkeeping has been restrained and dignified. At the time of the sale of 51 per cent of the stock to the Chilean government in 1967, Kennecott signed an agreement for expanding El Teniente's productive capacity by 55 per cent, or from 180,000 tons of copper per year to 280,000 tons. The cost was set at more than $230 million, with $92 million coming from a Kennecott loan and $110 million being advanced by the Export-Import Bank. The remainder of the development money — $37 million — was contributed by the Chilean Copper Corporation. We are asked to believe that expenditures over four years resulted in a "defective condition of the mine!"

Well, if the mine was "defective," who left it that way? Chileans had been trained to fill managerial, professional and technical positions throughout the whole El Teniente organization. The 51 per cent government ownership guaranteed that policies must be set in the interests of Chile. Frank Milliken, the Kennecott president, sounds almost plaintive when he says that "the creation of El Teniente Mining Company was designed to meet the aspirations of the Chilean people to participate directly in developing their country's most important natural resource, copper."

Oh, well, the expropriation without compensation was in the cards. Marxists simply play the game that way. We can be sorry for Kennecott, but the real anger of this column is directed not at Chilean Marxists but at those American businessmen who, despite what has just happened in Chile, continue to look for killings by asking capitalist governments to back their undertakings in various other nations under Marxist control. It is you and me, the American taxpayers, who will be called to foot the bill when (through U.S. government compensation to sheared investors) our equities in Communist enterprises are wiped out.

If we can't learn from Allende, we'll never learn from anyone else.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My husband thought he was having a heart attack and went directly to a hospital.

The doctors said his quick action probably saved his life because it turned out that he did have a coronary attack.

Could this be helpful to your readers?

Mrs. A.C.F., III.

Dear Mrs. F.:

Your husband's judgment was sound. To go directly to a hospital, especially if a doctor is not immediately available, is the sensible thing to do when anyone is in great distress.

Early recognition of a heart attack and the beginning of active treatment are now recognized as two of the most important factors in recovery. It is estimated that more than 500,000 people in America have fatal heart attacks each year because they did not reach their doctor or a hospital in time.

Physicians and hospitals are now concentrating on methods of reducing these alarming statistics. A nationwide program is in active progress to bring the patient to the hospital earlier, or to bring life-saving equipment to him with utmost speed.

A program known as Early Coronary Care Systems is being established to administer on-the-spot, life-saving treatment and to deliver the patient to the Intensive Coronary Care Unit of a nearby hospital.

Mobile automobile units are directed by hospitals by two-way communication system.

The minutes saved are of vital importance in sparing the lives of heart attack victims.

Emergency calls bring out these units, which are staffed with highly trained physicians and specialized equipment. Immediate intensive treatment in the mobile unit takes place en route to the hospital.

More than 50 such units are already in active work in major cities all over the United States. Each one has reported the most encouraging statistics.

It is hoped that every community, no matter how small, will take advantage of these programs and set up a similar system.

A number of leading pharmaceutical manufacturers have created the Advance Coronary Treatment Foundation whose purpose is to show local groups how to set up the Early Coronary Care Program. Films and literature are available through the American Heart Association.

Indict Collins Mining Firm For Stripping U.S. Forest

CINCINNATI (AP) — A federal grand jury has returned three misdemeanor indictments against a strip mining firm owned by Ohio State Sen. Oakley Collins, R-Ironton, and recommended civil action by the federal government to recover an estimated $25,000 in damages to Wayne National Forest.

Collins had no comment on the indictments against his firm, the Collins Mining Co., of Hanging Rock.

He said in July, 1971, that his firm had moved into the federal land by mistake while mining adjacent property. He offered then to make restitution.

The grand jury charged that between March and May, 1969, the firm unlawfully cut and destroyed timber and other forest products; unlawfully carried on strip-mining without a permit; and unlawfully deposited substances which polluted streams, lakes and other waters bordering Wayne National Forest.

Maximum penalty under each indictment is $500 upon conviction, said First Assistant U.S. Attorney Norbert Nadel, or a total of $1,500 for conviction on all three with maximum fines.

The grand jury also recommended that the U.S. Justice Department initiate civil proceedings to recover funds received by the Collins firm for the strip-mined coal. It also urged a suit to require that the property be restored and reclaimed "as soon as possible."

Pointing to what it called "the long delay" in reclamation since 1969, the grand jury also said the U.S. Forestry Service take immediate steps to protect the "environmental integrity of the area."

A final recommendation was that the Forest Service define boundaries in sufficient detail to prevent any further possibility that a mining company could trespass unknowingly.

Collins, who was also chairman of the Senate Education Committee, was accused of having stripped 32.6 acres. Collins estimated that 25,000 tons of coal was taken out of the forest.

The forest is seven miles north of the Collins Mining Co. headquarters at Hanging Rock.

The Dayton Daily News quoted an investigator for the U.S. Department of Justice saying damage to the forest would be more than $50,000.

Collins said the land in question was adjacent to land his firm had leased for mining from the Marquette Cement Manufacturing Co.

Woman On Probation In Manslaughter Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sharon Ann Flaughter, 20, was free on three years probation today following her conviction Thursday of first-degree manslaughter in the suffocation of her newborn baby July 26.

She told Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William Morrissey she thought the baby, born at her parents' home, was dead at birth.

The child was found in a suitcase later that day when Mrs. Flaughter, following her marriage in Hillsboro, Ohio, to Robert Flaughter, was admitted to a Portsmouth hospital.

Film Industry Sees More Profitable Year

EDITOR'S NOTE—The glory days of Hollywood are far in the past but things aren't all gloomy for the movie industry as 1972 unfolds. The following last of two articles on what lies in store for Hollywood in year ahead, tells of the industry's hopes and fears.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie industry is beginning to see some daylight through the dark clouds that have caused gloom for the last five years. "This year will be better." That's the cautious optimism of most leaders of the film business. Their caution is natural: 1971 was not a good year. But certain indications point to improvement in 1972 of the long-ailing industry.

Says Robert Evans, production chief of Paramount: "Less and less people are going to 'the movies,' but more and more people are going to 'a movie.' If you can find that movie that people urgently want to see, you can prosper." Veteran producer Michael Frankovich agrees: "Pictures will definitely feel more losses than ever before as audiences become more selective. But as audiences become more selective, the big pictures will be bigger than ever."

Adolph Zukor, 99-year-old founding father of the film industry, expressed the same thought in a recent interview: "A company only needs only one or two (blockbuster) pictures each year, and it can pay for all the other pictures that lose money."

This represents the superhit survival philosophy that dominates industry thinking today. It started with "The Sound of Music," which astounded everyone by amassing $100 million in film rentals. Its success led 20th Century-Fox and other companies to invest many millions in trying to duplicate it, with near-bankruptcy results. Fox's "Hello, Dolly!" and "Tora Tora Tora" cost $50 million and returned $41 million.

Now the film companies are operating on the theory that blockbusters can be produced without huge production costs. Example: "The French Connection," which cost $3.2 million and will bring back more than either "Dolly" or "Tora."

"The more efficient production becomes, the more production we'll have," predicts John Gavin, president of the Screen Actors Guild. "Every company is cutting costs and making economies that were advised 15 years ago. That can only bring about a healthier industry."

Gavin foresees a real upturn by the third quarter of 1972. The basis for his prediction: streamlining of company operations; revival in the country's economy; legislative help in curing the industry's ills.

All companies have abandoned the "shoot-it-at-any-cost" philosophy.

A $3-million film budget is becoming more of a rarity as producers seek to cut expenses at every level.

"It's got to be done all the way down the line," says Paramount's Evans. "That means deferment of salaries for actors and directors. It means smaller crews. It means cutting down on long-distance phone calls and dressing rooms and company cars. It's not one thing that runs up the cost of films. It's a thousand things."

Some industry leaders predict a new prosperity from development of new audiences for films. Says Gordon Stulberg, president of Fox:

"The film business is much like the airline industry. Your margin of profit or loss is based on how many seats are occupied. If your theaters or airplanes go empty, you lose money. That has been our problem: not enough 'passengers' in the seats."

"The problem was solved for a while by finding a new medium for films: network and syndicated television. Now we need to find new audiences, and for the first time, we know where they can come from."

Stulberg cited these mediums: cable television or some other form of pay TV ("surveys show that the public will pay between $5 and $15 a month to see noncommercial movies"); home showings via cassettes; individual telecasts in hotels, motels and hospitals. The Fox president added: "During the next 10 years, I believe a new pattern will emerge for films: First they will play theaters; then they will get into the home through some form of pay TV; then they will be released for hotels, airlines, hospitals, etc."

This is an age of enlightenment and many books are being written so people will have more understanding. This is especially true in the medical field where many doctors feel that fear of the unknown is a burden and that knowing the truth will be helpful.

Dr. F. E. Graham-Bonallie is one of these doctors; he has written "Know Your Illness." This book is a medical dictionary with each illness, disease, etc. carefully and clearly explained. He has given the general treatment usually followed for many conditions. This is not a do-it-yourself treatment book, but an attempt to help us fully understand the disease or condition our doctor has told us we have.

"Emergency Medical Guide" by Dr. John Henderson is specifically for the home treatment of an emergency situation until adequate medical assistance can be obtained. This is the second edition of his book, and he has included some new techniques for saving life and preventing common illnesses. It would be a valuable reference book for each home library.

Many millions of people in the United States are plagued by imaginary heart trouble, and they often suffer more than people with the real thing. Dr. Peter J. Steiner has written "Your Heart is Stronger Than You Think" especially for these people he calls "cardiophobes." This book is extremely reassuring to everyone, because Dr. Steiner presents a convincing case that the heart muscle is indeed "stronger than we think."

An absolutely fascinating book about seven of our important drugs has been written by Geoffrey Marks and William K. Beatty. "The Medical Garden" traces the history of opium, cocaine, quinine, aspirin, colchicine, digitalis and penicillin. All seven drugs were originally derived from plant forms, and most of them had very interesting early histories.

"The Brain: Towards an Understanding" by C. U. M. Smith has to be the most complete book on the brain ever written for the layman. It will tell you everything you need to know about the brain short of how to do an operation. There are many detailed pictures and drawings showing the structure of the brain, and there is a good index if you are especially interested in only one specific area of the brain. This is a highly technical book, and is recommended only for those who have a good science background.

'Transportation Romance' Program For Secretaries

beside the new podium used for the first time Thursday evening during the Guest Night meeting.

"Romance Of Transportation" was the program for the Guest Night dinner meeting of Roundtown Chapter of National Secretaries Assn. at Tink's.

Joe Carnes, a pilot for United Airlines, showed a film on Hawaii followed by a question and answer period. The increased popularity of flying was evidenced by the many pertinent questions asked by both members and guests. An interesting point brought out by Mr. Carnes was that pollution conscious people complained loudly about the black emission from jet engines and the industry has over-compensated in correcting the pollutant. He said that now the exhaust from the planes does not show but is more harmful than the black clouds. Next will come the process of leveling the contents of fuel to lower its danger and still keep it colorless.

Mr. Carnes, introduced by June West, explained the training a commercial pilot must have before he is permitted to fly. Pilots must have a college education, military training and train with the airline for from four to six years before they actually become a pilot. Tests are given to determine if a man is suitable both mentally and physically to handle an aircraft before he is considered for training. Some of the common traits they prefer in pilots are: fishermen, golfers, bridge players, mechanics and farmers.

Jennie Russell, vice president, presided over the brief business session in the absence of Dorothy Ann Evans, president, who is on vacation in Nevada.

The main topic of discussion was the up-coming Secretaries Week, a highlight of the year for the club. At the March meeting a committee chaired by Sharon Walters will conduct a ballot vote from the membership for a Secretary-of-the-Year.

Next month the guest speaker will be Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin of Columbus. Her program will be "My Experience In Yoga" and all members are to wear slacks so they may participate.

Salem WSCS Discusses Dinner Plans

Plans were discussed for a congregational covered-dish dinner during the recent meeting of Women's Society of Christian Service of Salem United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Drema Scott, Lincoln Drive.

For devotions, Mrs. Gene Kerns, vice president, used "Self Control" as her theme. Scripture was read from Galatians 5th and 6th chapters. Meditation, also on self control, was followed with prayer.

President, Mrs. Donald Minor, presided over the business meeting. Miss Betty Boldosier presented the reading "The Good Old Hymns" and Mrs. June McAfee read "A Woman Considers Time." Mrs. Minor read a poem titled "Faith."

Mrs. Donald Hildenbrand introduced a novel money making project concerning the month before Easter. Plans were completed for a bake sale to be held the week before Easter. Birthday dues were paid by Mrs. Kerns. It was reported that 15 sick calls were made in January.

The charge-wide dinner will be held 6:30 p.m. Feb. 20 at the Salem Church. Calvin Rodeheffer, district superintendent, will be present to speak on a new retirement center in southern Ohio.

Refreshments were served by Miss Betty Melton and Mrs. Drema Scott.

'The Slow Learner' Nurses Program

Fred Beckett of the Reading Research Foundation, will be guest speaker for the 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting of Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. in Pickaway Manor. He will use as his topic "The Slow Learner."

Caffeine In Coffee Speeds Aging Process

NEW YORK (AP) — The caffeine in your coffee can speed aging, says two University of Utah scientists.

They believe that caffeine—the chemical that makes coffee a mild stimulant — may cause damage to the body's chromosomes, the tiny ribbons of protein and acid which govern growth and aging.

Each human body cell contains 46 chromosomes and Prof. Henry Eyring and Dr. Betsy Stover say damage to the chromosomes can be caused by caffeine.

LIGHT FANTASTIC TOE — Dr. and Mrs. Walter Heine are shown as they demonstrate how to Swing Your Partner during the Thursday meeting of Pickaway Social

NEW YORK (AP) — The international sports stars were skimming over ice and snow as NBC continued its excellent pictorial coverage of the Winter Olympics for two hours Thursday night. At the same time on CBS, Marlon Brando and Vivian Leigh were suffering dramatically in the 1951 film, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Over on ABC, a refuge for the seeker of escape entertainment, a most unlikely private investigator, Mike Longstreet, was wandering around sympathizing with an injured, guilt-ridden nurse but he eventually got around to solving the mystery of a hospital fire that killed three patients.

That cast concluded, along came barrister Owen Marshall, stumbling around looking for a way to defend a client charged with perjury. He seemed deliberately to ignore an angle obvious even to a viewer but finally fixed up things nicely when he found a witness was color-blind.

"Longstreet" and "Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law" are rather diverting light TV entertainment but for the viewer who enjoys puzzles and action, both are frequently long on developing interpersonal relationships, short of plot.

Longstreet, for instance, spent more than half the show trying to figure out why anyone would want to set fire to a hospital. Eventually he began to wonder if the fire was incidental to a plot to murder a patient. After that, things were cleaned up rather fast in time for the final commercial. Another preoccupation of the series is exploring facets of the hero's attitude toward his blindness.

The lawyer show that follows also does a pretty leisurely buildup of characters each week. Marshall, neatly played by Arthur Hill, invariably emerges as a sage, grave and marvelously perceptive man of law. Anybody who could have Owen Marshall for a lawyer and Marcus Welby for a doctor would be lucky indeed. Both characters were dreamed up by the same man, David Victor, who is executive producer of both ABC series.

But this week, Owen was either obtuse or naive. His pretty client kept insisting she was at a ski lodge and seen by no one at the time she needed an alibi. It seemed pretty obvious that there was a man and an illicit romance mixed up in it somehow, but Owen never thought of that. She finally had to break down and tell him—just in time for the final court room scene in which he got his client off.

Mrs. Schlafly Raps Nixon

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A conservative writer told a Republican Lincoln Day dinner here Thursday night President Nixon is not doing enough about national defense.

Phyllis Schlafly, author of "A Choice Not an Echo," said the United States is running behind in the arms race and has fallen to a second-rate status behind Russia.

She said Americans should demand this country maintain military supremacy.

She said Nixon is going to China "solely to occupy the news and get the left wing press something to write about instead of carving him up otherwise."

The candidacy of conservative Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, for the Republican presidential nomination she said, has been useful to get Nixon to spend more for defense and to promise to keep Vice President Spiro Agnew on the ticket.

World Record Set For Cold Bathing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "He's a little weird," a friend said of Chris Johnson after the 21-year-old Kent State University junior emerged from a snow and ice-filled bathtub where he had spent a world record 93 minutes.

Before climbing into the bathtub—nude—Johnson had called the Guinness Book of World Records to find out if anyone had claimed a record for such a feat. He said he was assured no one had. So, into the tub, and friends began packing ice and snow around Johnson's body, leaving only his head visible.

DIAMOND TO WOO A SWEETHEART

If candy and flowers and sentimental poetry didn't win her over... try a diamond. A delicate pendant flashing from a chain will dazzle her... and it is so permanent, won't wilt or be devoured. If that doesn't work, swing it before her eyes... maybe hypnosis is your answer.

'Transportation Romance' Program For Secretaries

beside the new podium used for the first time Thursday evening during the Guest Night meeting.

"Romance Of Transportation" was the program for the Guest Night dinner meeting of Roundtown Chapter of National Secretaries Assn. at Tink's.

Joe Carnes, a pilot for United Airlines, showed a film on Hawaii followed by a question and answer period. The increased popularity of flying was evidenced by the many pertinent questions asked by both members and guests. An interesting point brought out by Mr. Carnes was that pollution conscious people complained loudly about the black emission from jet engines and the industry has over-compensated in correcting the pollutant. He said that now the exhaust from the planes does not show but is more harmful than the black clouds. Next will come the process of leveling the contents of fuel to lower its danger and still keep it colorless.

Mr. Carnes, introduced by June West, explained the training a commercial pilot must have before he is permitted to fly. Pilots must have a college education, military training and train with the airline for from four to six years before they actually become a pilot. Tests are given to determine if a man is suitable both mentally and physically to handle an aircraft before he is considered for training. Some of the common traits they prefer in pilots are: fishermen, golfers, bridge players, mechanics and farmers.

Jennie Russell, vice president, presided over the brief business session in the absence of Dorothy Ann Evans, president, who is on vacation in Nevada.

The main topic of discussion was the up-coming Secretaries Week, a highlight of the year for the club. At the March meeting a committee chaired by Sharon Walters will conduct a ballot vote from the membership for a Secretary-of-the-Year.

Next month the guest speaker will be Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin of Columbus. Her program will be "My Experience In Yoga" and all members are to wear slacks so they may participate.

Salem WSCS

Discusses Dinner Plans

Plans were discussed for a congregational covered-dish dinner during the recent meeting of Women's Society of Christian Service of Salem United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Drema Scott, Lincoln Drive.

For devotions, Mrs. Gene Kerns, vice president, used "Self Control" as her theme. Scripture was read from Galatians 5th and 6th chapters. Meditation, also on self control, was followed with prayer.

President, Mrs. Donald Minor, presided over the business meeting. Miss Betty Boldoser presented the reading "The Good Old Hymns" and Mrs. June McAfee read "A Woman Considers Time." Mrs. Minor read a poem titled "Faith."

Mrs. Donald Hildenbrand introduced a novel money making project concerning the month before Easter. Plans were completed for a bake sale to be held the week before Easter. Birthday dues were paid by Mrs. Kerns. It was reported that 15 sick calls were made in January.

The charge-wide dinner will be held 6:30 p.m. Feb. 20 at the Salem Church. Calvin Rodeheffer, district superintendent, will be present to speak on a new retirement center in southern Ohio.

Refreshments were served by Miss Betty Melton and Mrs. Drema Scott.

'The Slow Learner' Nurses Program

Fred Beckett of the Reading Research Foundation, will be guest speaker for the 8 p.m. Tuesday meeting of Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. in Pickaway Manor. He will use as his topic "The Slow Learner."

Caffeine In Coffee Speeds Aging Process

NEW YORK (AP) — The caffeine in your coffee can speed aging, says two University of Utah scientists.

They believe that caffeine—the chemical that makes coffee a mild stimulant—may cause damage to the body's chromosomes, the tiny ribbons of protein and acid which govern growth and aging.

Each human body cell contains 46 chromosomes and Prof. Henry Eyring and Dr. Betsy Stover say damage to the chromosomes can be caused by caffeine.

LIGHT FANTASTIC TOE — Dr. and Mrs. Walter Heine are shown as they demonstrate how to Swing Your Partner during the Thursday meeting of Pickaway Social Club. Square dancing highlighted the strictly social meeting of the club in the Parish House of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-2086

Mr. Walter Rathburn of Randolph Street is a patient in Doctors Hospital, North. He underwent surgery on Friday, Feb. 4.

Mr. Robert Gilbert II, Route 1, Ashville, returned to his home, Feb. 3, from Mercy Hospital where he had been hospitalized for thirty-one days following an industrial accident. Visitors are most welcome at his home anytime.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Smith (Stella McCain), Powell Street, announce the birth of a son on Feb. 3 at Grant Hospital, Columbus. The new baby weighed in at eight pounds, two ounces at birth. He has been named Shadley James.

The Ashville Pythian Sisters will meet in the K. P. Hall on Feb. 15, for the regular monthly meeting. The meeting, which will be conducted by Most Excellent Chief, Judy Campbell, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters met Thursday evening in the home of Edith Hudson. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mary Helen Miller. The report of the secretary and treasurer was given by Marilyn Sabine.

A thank-you note was read from the Rose Kaiserman family and a letter was read by the secretary from Clarice Parmer. The president distributed the hostess calendars for the new year to the members present.

Following the meeting games were played with first prize being awarded to Marilyn Sabine. The door prize was won by Florence Wharton.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hudson, assisted by Mary Helen Miller and Joan Kennedy.

Telephone Bid Blasted

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Despite cries of a financial crisis, "Ohio Bell is producing record-breaking revenues," says State Rep. George Mastics, R-52, Cleveland, alleging Ohio Bell used improper figures in pressing for a temporary rate hike.

Mastics said Ohio Bell used a rate of return of 3.4 per cent based on the Reconstruction Costs New (RCN) rate formula in seeking the rate hike he said is of "monumental proportions."

He said the formula "has no relationship whatsoever to Ohio Bell's profits." He said that to present an accurate picture of its financial status, Ohio Bell should have used the rate of return on its common equity.

The RCN method "is strictly a pro-utility device," said Mastics, who has introduced legislation in the House that would require utilities to use their original book values in determining their rates.

Malraux, Nixon To Hold Meeting On Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon is calling on France's former minister of culture, Andre Malraux, for a first-hand analysis of China's leaders.

Nixon said at his news conference Thursday he has asked Malraux to brief him personally at a meeting Monday in the White House. The meeting will be followed by a dinner for Malraux.

Although there are many China experts from whom he could have gotten counsel Nixon said, he selected Malraux because of a favorable meeting between the two in 1969.

"We had a discussion prior to dinner on the subject of China generally," the President said, "and I was particularly impressed with his analysis of the leaders."

Results of the Ashville Belles Tuesday Morning Housewives Bowling League for Feb. 8 were: High single game, Shirley Thompson, 213; High three-game series, Faye Leatherwood, 522; High team game, Ashville Cardinal Food Market, 632; High three-game series, Featheringham's, 1834.

John E. Little Jr. was pleasantly surprised Monday evening at his home when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Little, entertained in honor of his seventeenth birthday.

Those attending were Jack Brinker, Jeff Sheets, Steve Bumgarner, Jerry Sabine, Terry Lockard, Dave Archer, Steve White, Jim Williamson, Neil Weigand, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little, Mrs. Jean Weigand, Joni, Jim and Julie of the home.

The Church Council of the First English Lutheran Church will meet this Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Larry Toole was chairman for the program at the Feb. 1 Ashville Kiwanis Club meeting. Mr. Ronnie Williams representing the Boy Scout Explorer Troop was guest along with four members of the troop.

The business meeting was conducted by vice-president, Russell Toole in the absence of President Rodger Southward.

It was announced that the Club members would again travel to T.L.C.O. in Columbus. This proves to be a very interesting evening for all those who make the trip.

The souvenir water glasses being sold by the local club are selling very well. These glasses have both the traffic light which is located at Main and Long Streets and the covered bridge which once stood at the outer edge of the village on them. Make nice gifts.

It was announced that Frank Welsh is still collecting Christmas cards and stamps. He is to send another shipment very soon so all members are urged to get their collections to him as soon as possible.

Bill Lockard announced that hopefully a truckload of newspapers and magazines would be taken to Columbus on Feb. 12. These used articles are still being collected and any area residents wishing to contribute may do so by contacting Mr. Lockard or Rodger Southward.

It was announced that Feb. 15 would be Ladies Night at the club meeting. Following the dinner a tour will be taken through the Clark-May Home in Circleville which is also known as the Pickaway County Historical Society Home. The Kiwanis Club recently became a member of this society.

March 7 was announced as the date that the International President, Wes Bartlett, will be in Columbus. The affair will be held at the Columbus Sheraton and reservations may be made by members with Rodger Southward.

The First English Lutheran Church will hold Lenten Services this Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m.

State Parties Seek Wild Base

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virtue may or may not be its own reward, but the virtuous politician or party usually likes to see its right conduct repaid in votes.

So both Democratic and Republican state headquarters are attempting to show that they're going out of their way this year to get female, black and youth representatives on their national convention delegations.

Democratic State Chairman William Lavelle said his party will send a "balance delegation" to the convention and accused the GOP of continuing "to place power in the hands of a select few and to disenfranchise women, young people and minority groups."

A Republican Party spokesman countered that of the GOP's 566 delegates 10 are women, one is a youth delegate and one is black.

He also noted that the GOP chose a woman, Martha Moore, as the delegates' second choice for president, something he said neither party had ever done before.

Rep. James Thorpe, R-90 Alliance, a bitter opponent of the state income tax, believes Ohioans should be prepared for tax increases in 1973.

"From June, 1970, until June, 1971, the welfare rolls increased by 104,000 people," he said. "By June of 1972 we will probably have another 100,000 new recipients."

Thorpe said unless the governor and the legislature do something about welfare costs it will be necessary to increase taxes again.

"Neither the General Assembly nor the governor appears willing to grapple with the sticky problem of welfare reform," Thorpe said.

Thorpe said he was so disgusted over passage of the income tax that he would not seek re-election. He reconsidered after pressure from some of his colleagues.

The Associated Press has it on good authority here that there's a new look in Sen. William Saxbe's Washington office — the senator himself.

Saxbe has lost almost 30 pounds and his Columbus tailor is taking up the slack in the senator's wardrobe.

"Don't bring me anything for at least a week," the tailor told a reporter. "Sen. Saxbe lost 28 pounds and he's sent me eight suits to take them in. Two inches here, three inches there — it'll take all week."

The following paragraph appears in the Feb. 7 issue of "Ohio Democrat," semi-monthly publication of the Ohio Democratic Party:

"Gov. Gilligan's staff is so young that they don't have coffee breaks. A bell rings and they have recess."

Quote of the Week: When asked what his union would do if efforts at persuasion and court battles failed to force state officials into awarding pay increases already approved by the legislature and signed into law, Herschel Sigall, frustrated head of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees declared simply: "Maybe try self-immolation in front of the capitol."

Then, after a short period of reflection, Sigall qualified his position a bit. "I'd rather not be first," he said.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A low pressure area over central Canada will move eastward toward Ohio in the next couple of days. Southerly winds ahead of the system will bring a warming trend. Highs by Saturday will be in the 30s and 40s.

Moisture heading northward over the retreating cold air will continue the possibility of light snow tonight and Saturday. There also will be a chance of rain in southern Ohio Saturday.

For the first time since Sunday, overnight temperatures remained above zero. Early today, Toledo reported 1 degree above zero. Other temperatures ranged up to 23 at Cincinnati and 25 at Marietta.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Variable cloudiness and not as cold tonight with a chance of occasional light snow. Lows in the 20s. Considerable cloudiness and warmer with a chance of snow north and central and a chance of snow or rain south Saturday. Highs in the 30s north and 40s south.

NORTHWEST INLAND,

LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL—Variable cloudiness and not as cold with a chance of occasional light snow tonight. Lows in the low 20s. Mostly cloudy and warmer with a chance of light snow Saturday. Highs in the 30s.

SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST—Mostly cloudy and not as cold tonight with a chance of occasional light snow. Lows in the mid and upper 20s. Considerable cloudiness and warmer with a chance of snow or rain Saturday. Highs in the 40s.

19 Escape Warrensville Workhouse

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nineteen men sawed their way out of the Warrensville Workhouse Thursday night in what is believed to be the largest mass breakout ever at the institution.

Three of the escapees were back in custody this morning. Police said one was recaptured shortly after the breakout, which occurred between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two others were recaptured in a high-speed chase involving a stolen car in suburban Lakewood early today.

The breakout was not discovered until some prisoners were missing during the regular evening bed check, workhouse officials said.

The men cut through bars in the gymnasium, climbed onto a roof and dropped 24 feet to the ground.

Workhouse commissioner Kenneth Cooley said 16 of the prisoners were awaiting trial on felony charges and the other three were serving municipal court sentences. The 62-year-old institution is located in suburban Warrensville Heights.

John E. Little Jr. was pleasantly surprised Monday evening at his home when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Little, entertained in honor of his seventeenth birthday.

Those attending were Jack Brinker, Jeff Sheets, Steve Bumgarner, Jerry Sabine, Terry Lockard, Dave Archer, Steve White, Jim Williamson, Neil Weigand, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little, Mrs. Jean Weigand, Joni, Jim and Julie of the home.

The Church Council of the First English Lutheran Church will meet this Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Larry Toole was chairman for the program at the Feb. 1 Ashville Kiwanis Club meeting. Mr. Ronnie Williams representing the Boy Scout Explorer Troop was guest along with four members of the troop.

The business meeting was conducted by vice-president, Russell Toole in the absence of President Rodger Southward.

It was announced that the Club members would again travel to T.I.C.O. in Columbus. This proves to be a very interesting evening for all those who make the trip.

The souvenir water glasses being sold by the local club are selling very well. These glasses have both the traffic light which is located at Main and Long Streets and the covered bridge which once stood at the outer edge of the village on them.

Make nice gifts. It was announced that Frank Welsh is still collecting Christmas cards and stamps. He is to send another shipment very soon so all members are urged to get their collections to him as soon as possible.

Bill Lockard announced that hopefully a truckload of newspapers and magazines would be taken to Columbus on Feb. 12. These used articles are still being collected and any area residents wishing to contribute may do so by contacting Mr. Lockard or Rodger Southward.

It was announced that Feb. 15 would be Ladies Night at the club meeting. Following the dinner a tour will be taken through the Clark-May Home in Circleville which is also known as the Pickaway County Historical Society Home. The Kiwanis Club recently became a member of this society.

March 7 was announced as the date that the International President, Wes Bartlett, will be in Columbus. The affair will be held at the Columbus Sheraton and reservations may be made by members with Rodger Southward.

The First English Lutheran Church will hold Lenten Services this Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m.

State Parties Seek Wild Base

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virtue may or may not be its own reward, but the virtuous politician or party usually likes to see its right conduct repaid in votes.

So both Democratic and Republican state headquarters are attempting to show that they're going out of their way this year to get female, black and youth representatives on their national convention delegations.

Democratic State Chairman William Lavelle said his party will send a "balance delegation" to the convention and accused the GOP of continuing "to place power in the hands of a select few and to disenfranchise women, young people and minority groups."

A Republican Party spokesman countered that of the GOP's 566 delegates 10 are women, one is a youth delegate and one is black.

He also noted that the GOP chose a woman, Martha Moore, as the delegates' second choice for president, something he said neither party had ever done before.

Rep. James Thorpe, R-90 Alliance, a bitter opponent of the state income tax, believes Ohioans should be prepared for tax increases in 1973.

"From June, 1970, until June, 1971, the welfare rolls increased by 104,000 people," he said. "By June of 1972 we will probably have another 100,000 new recipients."

Thorpe said unless the governor and the legislature do something about welfare costs it will be necessary to increase taxes again.

"Neither the General Assembly nor the governor appears willing to grapple with the sticky problem of welfare reform," Thorpe said.

Thorpe said he was so disgusted over passage of the income tax that he would not seek re-election. He reconsidered after pressure from some of his colleagues.

The Associated Press has it on good authority here that there's a new look in Sen. William Saxbe's Washington office — the senator himself.

Saxbe has lost almost 30 pounds and his Columbus tailor is taking up the slack in the senator's wardrobe.

"Don't bring me anything for at least a week," the tailor told a reporter. "Sen. Saxbe lost 28 pounds and he's sent me eight suits to take them in. Two inches here, three inches there — it'll take all week."

The following paragraph appears in the Feb. 7 issue of "Ohio Democrat," semi-monthly publication of the Ohio Democratic Party:

"Gov. Gilligan's staff is so young that they don't have coffee breaks. A bell rings and they have recess."

Quote of the Week: When asked what his union would do if efforts at persuasion and court battles failed to force state officials into awarding pay increases already approved by the legislature and signed into law, Herschel Sigall, frustrated head of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees declared simply: "Maybe try self-immolation in front of the capitol."

Then, after a short period of reflection, Sigall qualified his position a bit. "I'd rather not be first," he said.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A low pressure area over central Canada will move eastward toward Ohio in the next couple of days. Southerly winds ahead of the system will bring a warming trend. Highs by Saturday will be in the 30s and 40s.

Moisture heading northward over the retreating cold air will continue the possibility of light snow tonight and Saturday. There also will be a chance of rain in southern Ohio Saturday.

For the first time since Sunday, overnight temperatures remained above zero. Early today, Toledo reported 1 degree above zero. Other temperatures ranged up to 23 at Cincinnati and 25 at Marietta.

FORECASTS

OHIO—Variable cloudiness and not as cold tonight with a chance of occasional light snow. Lows in the 20s. Considerable cloudiness and warmer with a chance of snow north and central and a chance of snow or rain south Saturday. Highs in the 30s north and 40s south.

NORTHWEST INLAND,

LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL—Variable cloudiness and not as cold with a chance of occasional light snow tonight. Lows in the low 20s. Mostly cloudy and warmer with a chance of light snow Saturday. Highs in the 30s.

SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST—Mostly cloudy and not as cold tonight with a chance of occasional light snow. Lows in the mid and upper 20s. Considerable cloudiness and warmer with a chance of snow or rain Saturday. Highs in the 40s.

19 Escape Warrensville Workhouse

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nineteen men sawed their way out of the Warrensville Workhouse Thursday night in what is believed to be the largest mass breakout ever at the institution.

Three of the escapees were back in custody this morning. Police said one was recaptured shortly after the breakout, which occurred between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two others were recaptured in a high-speed chase involving a stolen car in suburban Lakewood early today.

The breakout was not discovered until some prisoners were missing during the regular evening bed check, workhouse officials said.

The men cut through bars in the gymnasium, climbed onto a roof and dropped 24 feet to the ground.

Workhouse commissioner Kenneth Cooley said 16 of the prisoners were awaiting trial on felony charges and the other three were serving municipal court sentences. The 62-year-old institution is located in suburban Warrensville Heights.

License Issued

A license for the sale of 3.2 beer for carry-out was issued to John Isaac, doing business as Isaac's Cash and Carry, 456 Clinton St., it was announced by Richard E. Guggenheim of the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

Rev. Billy Graham Touched By Visit To Women's Prison

By BILL WINTER
Associated Press Writer
MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham pondered his visit with inmates at the Ohio Reformatory for Women, and said he'd been most touched by a woman who didn't speak.

"There was this beautiful black girl," he said after an hour-long discussion inside the prison Thursday, "and she never got a chance to say anything."

"But I did hear her say quietly... 'I'm here because I deserve to be here.'"

"That touched me," Graham said.

Graham drew a generally favorable reaction from inmates of the state's sole penal institution for women. His appearance was moderated by Dayton broadcaster Phil Donahue and distributed to about 40 markets by the Avco Broadcasting Corp.

"I've been to hundreds of prisons," Graham said, "in Germany, Japan, and other countries. Our prison system is in drastic need of reform."

Graham found a skeptical attitude toward Christianity among some inmates. "People say they're Christians," said

Fee-Posting Plan Fought By Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors, hospitals and nursing homes would be required to make available fee schedules for public inspection under legislation proposed by the Nixon administration.

The American Medical Association has announced it will oppose the fee-posting plan, included in a package of amendments sent to Congress Thursday. The amendments are designed to tie in with President Nixon's health insurance legislation.

The package also includes proposals to:

- Require states to regulate health insurance premiums through audits of health insurance carriers and self-insured employers. No state requires such audits at present.
- Protect consumers against failing insurance companies.
- Force insurers to disclose the percentage of premiums allocated to claims.

The AMA contends the fee-posting plan and a similar requirement already imposed under Phase 2 wage-price controls will have no effect on health care costs, which last year rose at nearly double the rate of other living costs.

"It is simply not practicable for a physician to arrive at a schedule of prices for each and every one of the numerous services he may be called upon to render," the AMA said when it appealed the Phase 2 regulation imposed by the Price Commission.

Weird Plot Involves Miss Idaho

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A bizarre threat to kidnap and shoot Karen Herd, Miss Idaho of 1971 and first runnerup in the Miss America pageant, was revealed in District Court.

The story, came to light when a Jane Doe—listed as the victim in a criminal complaint—was amended to give Miss Herd's name.

"It was simply a value judgment, whether the real victim's name should be used or not," Deputy Bonneville County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas C. Whyte said in explaining why Miss Herd's name had been kept secret.

The complaint was amended Wednesday after an Idaho Falls man, Keith Blaylock, 23, pleaded guilty before District Judge Boyd R. Thomas to third degree felony charges of threatening to commit a crime of violence against a person in connection with the incident.

Whyte said a threatening letter sent to Karen's residence in Idaho Falls in December warned that a man would purchase a .44-caliber magnum pistol, kidnap Miss Herd off the stage at a public gathering and shoot her if anyone, including police, interfered.

Blaylock was arrested several days later. In the meantime, another letter had been sent to the Herd residence saying that the threats had been a mistake, would not be carried out and the writer was "sorry."

Whyte and Police Capt. Ralph Hutchens, chief of detectives, said measures were taken to keep the threat to Miss Herd secret to "protect other public officials from similar circumstances in the future and to protect Miss Herd from "unnecessary unpleasantness."

Mustang 10 miles over the hills to Sierra Madre, another Los Angeles suburb, and becomes Dr. Jack Wright, a casually dressed, fee-charging clinical psychologist with a stream of patients whose lives are in crisis.

Jack Wright is an unusual Methodist minister, the product of a unique program at Fuller Theological Seminary in nearby Pasadena.

He's a pioneer on a frontier where religion and psychology are being merged in hopes some of the church's problems and those of its members can be solved.

Began in 1965, the Fuller program blends a rigorous six years of study in psychology and divinity to produce Ph.D. Clinical psychologists. Seminary officials say it is the only such graduate psychology program in the country.

"We think this program is an attempt to tie the psychology in a very technical and deep way into the common life of the congregation of the local church," Fuller President David Hubbard, a scholar of the Old Testament, said in an interview.

As associate minister of the 1,500-member Burbank church, Wright gets to preach the sermon every sixth Sunday. He said his sermons are about the Bible using psychology to help understand present times.

"I preach to them about love and acceptance and confrontation with themselves over lost dreams," he said.

He uses his psychology daily in administering the church's education program and has often found it helpful in pastoral counseling situations.

But being a minister and a psychologist has its problems.

He sometimes feels church members with problems worry they are talking to "the local shrink" instead of their minister.

"I have a feeling some are a little suspicious of my doctorate in psychology," he said. "The beard doesn't help, of course."

Another woman said, "if there was a God, we wouldn't be going through the hell we go through now."

Laughter erupted when an inmate said, "I believe there's a heaven... but I think I missed it."

When a woman complained of unfair treatment by prison officials, Graham counseled her to have patience. "There is no such thing as perfect justice," he said. "But some day all the injustice will be righted."

Graham said he receives about 500 letters a week from prisoners. He said he plans a fall tour of several prisons with entertainer Johnny Cash.

During chapel time at 7:30 p.m., the subject will be "The Great Healer." Monday meetings are Circle 2 in the home of Mrs. Roy Groce and Circle 3 in the home of Mrs. Donald Watson. A series on Lenten Services to be held each Wednesday evening until Easter will begin next week.

The sermon topic selected for First Presbyterian Church for Sunday morning is "Are We Human Or Merely Human?"

Weird Plot Involves Miss Idaho

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A bizarre threat to kidnap and shoot Karen Herd, Miss Idaho of 1971 and first runnerup in the Miss America pageant, was revealed in District Court.

The story, came to light when a Jane Doe—listed as the victim in a criminal complaint—was amended to give Miss Herd's name.

"It was simply a value judgment, whether the real victim's name should be used or not," Deputy Bonneville County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas C. Whyte said in explaining why Miss Herd's name had been kept secret.

The complaint was amended Wednesday after an Idaho Falls man, Keith Blaylock, 23, pleaded guilty before District Judge Boyd R. Thomas to third degree felony charges of threatening to commit a crime of violence against a person in connection with the incident.

Whyte said a threatening letter sent to Karen's residence in Idaho Falls in December warned that a man would purchase a .44-caliber magnum pistol, kidnap Miss Herd off the stage at a public gathering and shoot her if anyone, including police, interfered.

Blaylock was arrested several days later. In the meantime, another letter had been sent to the Herd residence saying that the threats had been a mistake, would not be carried out and the writer was "sorry."

Whyte and Police Capt. Ralph Hutchens, chief of detectives, said measures were taken to keep the threat to Miss Herd secret to "protect other public officials from similar circumstances in the future and to protect Miss Herd from "unnecessary unpleasantness."

Wednesday meetings are Evening Circle 7:30 p.m. in the Session room and board of deacons 7:30 p.m. in the lounge. On Thursday, Morning Circle will meet at 9 a.m. in the lounge and Afternoon Circle, 1:30 p.m. in the lounge.

Sunday morning at the Church of the Brethren the sermon topic selected is "The Spirit of The Lord" and the evening topic is "Grace To Save." Men's Fellowship Wild Game Supper is planned for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the church. The Wednesday evening topic is "Suffering For Christ's Sake." Youth Fellowship will have its annual homemade doughnut sale, Saturday, Feb. 19.

Sunday morning at Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church the speaker will be Charles Wellmen. Robert Valentine will present the evening sermon. A Laymen's Service will be conducted 4 p.m. at Pickaway Manor.

The sermon theme selected for Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran Church is "Games People Play." Luther League will have a Pizza Party 5:30 p.m. in the Parish House. Woman of the Church will have general meeting 7:30 p.m. in the Parish House. Ladies Bible Class meets 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Parish House. A special Ash Wednesday Service will begin 7:30 p.m. followed with a coffee hour in the church parlor.

At St. Philip's Episcopal Church a service of Penitential Order and Holy Eucharist will begin 7:30 p.m. Ash Wednesday. The Altar Guild will meet in the library following the service. The Youth Group will meet 7 p.m. Sunday at the church.

"Abraham Lincoln" is the sermon topic selected for Sunday morning at Community United Methodist Church. The annual Lenten "Bishop's Bible Study" will open 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with the communion service. The book of Revelation will be the text.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Each Sunday a young man with a full red beard dons black ecclesiastical robes and helps lead the congregation in worship, his occasional sermons filled with a message of love and acceptance.

Then, as the rest of the week, he's the Rev. Jack Wright, 35, the full-time associate minister at Burbank's First United Methodist Church, a sprawling mission-style red brick building whose bell tower's electronic chimes mark each hour.

On Tuesday, his day off, he drives the family's aging green

Mustang 10 miles over the hills to Sierra Madre, another Los Angeles suburb, and becomes Dr. Jack Wright, a casually dressed, fee-charging clinical psychologist with a stream of patients whose lives are in crisis.

Jack Wright is an unusual Methodist minister, the product of a unique program at Fuller Theological Seminary in nearby Pasadena.

He's a pioneer on a frontier where religion and psychology are being merged in hopes some of the church's problems and those of its members can be solved.

Began in 1965, the Fuller program blends a rigorous six years of study in psychology and divinity to produce Ph.D. Clinical psychologists. Seminary officials say it is the only such graduate psychology program in the country.

"We think this program is an attempt to the psychology in a very technical and deep way into the common life of the congregation of the local church," Fuller President David Hubbard, a scholar of the Old Test-tament, said in an interview. As associate minister of the 1,500-member Burbank church, Wright gets to preach the sermon every sixth Sunday. He said his sermons are about the Bible using psychology to help understand present times.

"I preach to them about love and acceptance and confrontation with themselves over lost dreams," he said.

He uses his psychology daily in administering the church's education program and has often found it helpful in pastoral counseling situations.

But being a minister and a psychologist has its problems.

He sometimes feels church members with problems worry they are talking to "the local shrink" instead of their minister.

"I have a feeling some are a little suspicious of my doctorate in psychology," he said. "The heard doesn't help, of course."

Grandmotherly Cat Burglar Nabbed In Miami Beach

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Grandmotherly, 54-year-old Adele Borsierine has been released on $5,000 bond after being charged with cleaning up Miami Beach hotel rooms "in more ways than one," police said.

A spokesman for the Dade County Sheriff's Department said the 115-pound Kansas City, Mo., widow used maid's uniforms and pass keys to burglarize rooms in hotels along the tourist strip.

"She was spending her month's vacation in Florida," a sheriff's department spokesman said. "She apparently has uniforms for all the hotels on the strip, and she'd just walk into a room, clean up, and split with anything that took her fancy."

"Then she'd wrap the stuff up in brown paper packages and mail it home to Kansas City," the spokesman said.

Mrs. Borsierine was arrested Tuesday and charged with possession of stolen property, possession of burglary tools and possession of stolen credit cards.

Officers investigating the case said her new car was filled with furs, jewelry, traveler's checks and keys from 33 hotels.

The sheriff's spokesman said officers watched Mrs. Borsierine mail a package to Kansas City just before she was arrested. When postal authorities opened the package, they said it contained a $2,000 mink coat that had been reported stolen from a hotel.

British Health Service Has Enough Doctors

LONDON (AP) — Britain's National Health Service employed 21,709 family doctors in 1970 the biggest number since the service was begun in 1948. The Health Department said that for the first time, it appears to have recruited enough doctors to handle problems created by the population explosion.

NEW HORIZONS

When does a baby start to think?

Nobody knows, but thoughts come by association. Baby eagerly responds to the sight of a bottle. Experience proves that the bottle offers both satisfaction and comfort.

Because baby does learn by association, it is important that parents expand their children's horizons. A very small child will respond to a simple prayer. And a child of three will enjoy attending Church School geared for youngsters of that age.

Religious instruction and guidance is not only for the mature—it is needed regularly by everyone. The spiritual life of your child needs constant cultivation and the mind needs day by day development.

Grandmotherly Cat Burglar Nabbed In Miami Beach

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Grandmotherly, 54-year-old Adele Borserine has been released on $5,000 bond after being charged with cleaning up Miami Beach hotel rooms "in more ways than one," police said.

A spokesman for the Dade County Sheriff's Department said the 115-pound Kansas City, Mo., widow used maid's uniforms and pass keys to burglarize rooms in hotels along the tourist strip.

"She was spending her month's vacation in Florida," a sheriff's department spokesman said. "She apparently has uniforms for all the hotels on the strip, and she'd just walk into a room, clean up, and snitch with anything that took her fancy."

"Then she'd wrap the stuff up in brown paper packages and mail it home to Kansas City," the spokesman said.

Mrs. Borserine was arrested Tuesday and charged with possession of stolen property, possession of burglary tools and possession of stolen credit cards. Officers investigating the case said her new car was filled with furs, jewelry, traveler's checks and keys from 33 hotels.

The sheriff's spokesman said officers watched Mrs. Borserine mail a package to Kansas City just before she was arrested. When postal authorities opened the package, they said it contained a $2,000 mink coat that had been reported stolen from a hotel.

British Health Service Has Enough Doctors

LONDON (AP) — Britain's National Health Service employed 21,709 family doctors in 1970 the biggest number since the service was begun in 1948. The Health Department said that for the first time, it appears to have recruited enough doctors to handle problems created by the population explosion.

Wrestler Is Having Good Season

GARY MORGAN

By JEFF HARR

Gary Morgan has been selected as the Tiger grappler for the week. Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan of 350 Edwards Road. He has two older brothers, Dave and Jim, and one younger brother, Bill.

The seventeen-year-old junior participates in the 167-pound class. Last year, while wrestling in the same class, Gary posted a 16-10 record and won a chance to wrestle in the District tournament. So far this year Gary is 12-3, has won his class in the Bishop Hartley Tournament and placed fourth in the Licking Heights Tournament. He could have placed higher at Licking Heights but was prohibited to continue wrestling due to an injury. As a sophomore, Gary placed second at the league meet but is favored to take it all this year.

Gary participates in football and baseball as well as wrestling. He is presently working on his fifth varsity letter. In between his school work and sports, Gary finds time to serve as parliamentarian of the Stooze Club. After graduation he plans to go to college and major in physical education.

When asked what his hobbies were Gary replied that he liked playing ping-pong, hunting, watching television with Connie, wood working and playing basketball or football on Sunday afternoons or any other time.

In The Know Battle Lost

By LYN JACOBS

It was a snowy evening, but in spite of bad weather conditions, the In The Know team and a great number of other CHS students made it up to Columbus Feb. 3 for a live appearance on television.

After drilling diligently during past few months on questions dealing with art, music, history, science, math, literature and current events, the team, consisting of Mark Plescia, Andy Hoffman, Tom Hamilton and Mike Cairns, entered into a "battle of the minds" with Hilliard High School.

Buzzers buzzed, bells rang, the crowd cheered and the tension mounted. Circleville correctly answered a ten pointer, then Hilliard a five pointer, and vice versa. Throughout the first half of the game, then throughout the second half, the story was the same. The score never varied more than a few points.

As questions got harder, CHS's competitors thought faster. It was a closely fought battle. Though Hilliard scored on the last question of the show with less than a minute remaining, winning with a score of 190-180, the members of the local team made a proud showing and were fine representatives of the school.

New Student Is From New York

Tom Caruso, who has recently moved from Buffalo, N. Y., is a new student at Circleville High. At his old school, Cardinal O'Hara, he participated in track, cross-country and community football.

Here at the high school he plans to try out for stage band, track and football. He likes to ski and plays the guitar.

Tom has two sisters, Diana, who attends the Junior High and Patricia, who is attending Nicholas Drive Elementary School. His father is employed at DuPont.

Sport Programs Aid Youngsters

By DON VALENTINE

Did you ever wonder where most fifth and sixth graders spend their cold winter Saturday mornings? Well, here's the answer.

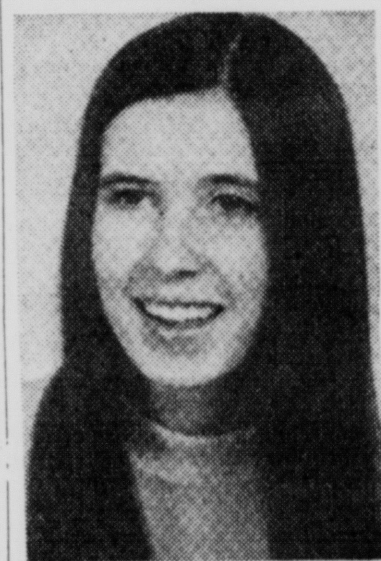

Anywhere from one hundred and fifty to two hundred eager, excited boys grab their gym shorts and shoes and head for the closest gym to learn the basic skills of basketball, and most of all, to have a good time. Some of these future eagles report to the high school, where head basketball coach, John Lawhorn, is in charge, and the rest of them go to the junior high, where they are led by Dennis Stewart, Circleville's reserve coach.

The boys are divided into teams and assigned a coach. Then, at nine o'clock, the action begins. These coaches, made up of varsity and reserve basketball players, put their respective squads through a fundamental session in which lay-ups, foul shots, jump shots, passing, defense and rebounding are stressed.

After this half hour session is completed, the fun really begins. The different teams get a chance to show their ability to play together in 15-minute games. In each of the two leagues, records are kept, and eventually the two best teams will meet each other for the championship.

Following the games, the teams compete against each other in relay races dribbling a basketball. The tireless youngsters go at this as though their lives depended on it. When

BRENDA STEVENSON

By LINDA CORDLE

Brenda Stevenson, this week's DECA student, lives at 617 Mowrer Road with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stevenson.

She has a brother, Earl, and a sister, Theresa. Brenda works at W. I. Heiskell and Son Realtors. She got her job by going in to see Mr. William Heiskell several times. He called Mrs. Greenwood to tell her Brenda got the job after he and Mrs. Greenwood had a short conference. She types, answers the phone, and meets prospective buyers of real estate. She works six days a week for a total of nineteen hours.

Asked how her job has helped her prepare for the future she said, "I think my present job has given me experiences of what office work is like and has helped me improve my command of the English language."

Brenda says she does not come into contact with the public as much as she would like, but she enjoys meeting different types of people.

Her likes include sewing, horseback riding, her job, and being with Tony. Her dislikes are stuck-up people and too much homework.

After graduation she plans to continue working and is planning a fall wedding.

Band Prepares For Competition

By CRAIG ALLISON

As most people at CHS know, our concert band is among the finest in the area. But contrary to what most people think, it is not the great size of the band but rather the small instrumental sections that create the great quality of sound.

The Tiger concert band is, like other concert bands, made up of dozens of ensembles, such as French horn quartet, trumpet quartet, or clarinet quintet.

Right now the band is very hard at work practicing for competition on the solo and ensemble level as well as the concert level.

On March 16, the student body will have the opportunity of listening to the fantastic Circleville High School Stage Band, live and in concert.

these races are completed, the boys are sent to the showers although many of them are not ready to quit.

The program is promoted not only to teach basketball but also to give young boys a chance to meet other boys their own age and to learn how to take coaching which will help them in junior high and high school basketball.

Any parents or interested basketball fans are welcome to come and see their heroes in action and urge them on to victory.

Monday Is . . .

By CAROL HODGES

Having made it through another Monday, I can sympathize with those who feel it is a rotten day and should be deleted from the week. If you think going to work is bad, facing school is worse. For example, Monday is:

Oversleeping and being tardy for the third time in a month and getting detention.

Realizing as you walk in CP English II that you forgot to do your journal entries for the weekend.

Going in the wrong restroom.

Trying to go in the wrong door to lunch.

Finding the library is closed for inventory.

Losing your book report.

Having dirty hair.

Not remembering any lunch money.

Forgetting your clean phys. ed. clothes.

Having a pop quiz and 40 minutes of homework in each class.

Not being able to find the stairs to the second floor (still at the Junior High?)

Not getting more than 20 words a minute in typing — with 10 mistakes.

Missing the bus.

Trying to think of an article for the Red and Black.

Tigers Prepare For Dual Meet

By KENT WOLFE

After winning two big games last weekend, CHS will once again have a busy week as they travel to meet the Greenfield McClain Tigers and host the Madison Plains.

McClain is a very talented team that is now leading the league race with only one loss. Although Circleville is out of the league race, they are working hard to improve their overall record and will hand McClain their second league loss.

The Madison Plains are new on the Tiger schedule this year. They are a newly consolidated school, but have a fine, fast-moving team with a good record. Circleville has had good luck with Saturday night games and will be ready to win their last one of the season.

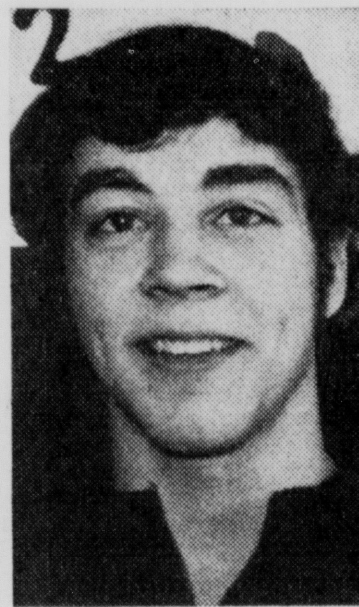

Elsewhere in the county, Logan Elm will take East Clinton, Zane Trace will be more than Westfall can handle, and Teays Valley will take Dublin and lose to Reynoldsburg.

Glen, Dave Are Players Of The Week

By CRAIG ALLISON

This week the Red and Black staff is featuring Glen Gillespie and Dave Mehalick as the Tiger basketball players of the week.

Glen Gillespie, a junior, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Gillespie. His mother is known to haunt the guidance office, as she carries out her duties as guidance counselor at CHS.

GLEN GILLESPIE

Glen participates in cross country as 5th man on the team, and also in track, as he runs the mile.

After school, Glen plans to attend Iowa Wesleyan and study law.

If his spare time, Glen likes to read books, eat, and watch girls.

Dave Mehalick is a sophomore at CHS. Dave is known on the basketball team as "Barney."

DAVE MEHALICK

Besides basketball, Dave was a member of the football team, playing quarterback. Dave came off the bench several times and sparked the Tiger gridders. Also, Coach Lint is counting heavily on Dave in the 880 in track this year.

CHS will lose Dave next year though, as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mehalick, are moving to Buffalo, New York this summer.

After school, Dave plans to attend college in South Carolina. In his unoccupied moments, Dave likes to watch girls, R-rated movies, and eat.

Guidance Department Plans Night Sessions

The Guidance Department of Circleville High School will be holding evening meetings with all parents interested in learning more about the curriculum offerings and scheduling for the 1972-73 school year.

Scheduled times are as follows: Feb. 17, 7:30 p.m. — High school auditorium — for parents of students who are now

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Mother Worried For Daughter's Safety

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you several months ago about a male relative molesting my 3-year-old girl. Your answer was to confront him with it, and get him to a doctor, fast. We had already confronted him, and of course, he denied everything. "She makes up stories," he said.

Abby, how can a 3-year-old make up stories of this kind?

I talked with the police department, and was told you cannot accuse someone of molesting without proof. How do you get proof? When the child was younger, this relative would come over and take her out for "rides" in his car, and when he brought her home, her clothes were a mess, and her diaper pins were upside down! (Abby, do you know any mothers who put diaper pins in upside down? I don't.)

That, and a dozen other incidents, is still not sufficient proof. Will they take the word of a 3-year-old against that of a grown man who is admired and respected by all? NO!

I was made to look like a hysterical mother having hallucinations. Can you now understand why each night I pray for God to take him? Only then will I have peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: I believe you. And I promise to give you my prompt personal assistance, if you will send me your name and address.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman, just recovering from surgery. I have also had a heart attack and I am not very well. My problem is I am trying to keep from getting the flu, but I have two women friends who always kiss me when they greet me. And when I leave, they are in the habit of kissing me goodbye.

I never minded until now. But there is so much flu around that a person can't be too careful. I would feel foolish asking them not to kiss me for this reason, yet I wish they wouldn't. How can I keep them from kissing me without losing their friendship?

Please print this. I am sure others have the same problem.

SALT LAKE CITY
DEAR SALT LAKE: When they approach you, gently give them the "straight arm" and say, "Please, no kisses. One of us may have a little bug." (True, one of you may have.)

DEAR ABBY: The idea of exchanging tapes with servicemen who find writing letters tedious was a good one. Your comment that it was a good idea for those who could "afford" it caught my attention.

I suggest that both servicemen and their families contact their local U.S.O. Many USO's at home and abroad will provide tapes, recorders, and even pay the postage as a service to our men in uniform.

After winning two big games last weekend, CHS will once again have a busy week as they travel to meet the Greenfield McClain Tigers and host the Madison Plains.

McClain is a very talented team that is now leading the league race with only one loss. Although Circleville is out of the league race, they are working hard to improve their overall record and will hand McClain their second league loss.

The Madison Plains are new on the Tiger schedule this year. They are a newly consolidated school, but have a fine, fast-moving team with a good record. Circleville has had good luck with Saturday night games and will be ready to win their last one of the season.

Elsewhere in the county, Logan Elm will take East Clinton, Zane Trace will be more than Westfall can handle, and Teays Valley will take Dublin and lose to Reynoldsburg.

Glen, Dave Are Players Of The Week

By CRAIG ALLISON

This week the Red and Black staff is featuring Glen Gillespie and Dave Mehalick as the Tiger basketball players of the week.

Glen Gillespie, a junior, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Gillespie. His mother is known to haunt the guidance office, as she carries out her duties as guidance counselor at CHS.

GLEN GILLESPIE

Glen participates in cross country as 5th man on the team, and also in track, as he runs the mile.

After school, Glen plans to attend Iowa Wesleyan and study law.

If his spare time, Glen likes to read books, eat, and watch girls.

Dave Mehalick is a sophomore at CHS. Dave is known on the basketball team as "Barney."

DAVE MEHALICK

Besides basketball, Dave was a member of the football team, playing quarterback. Dave came off the bench several times and sparked the Tiger gridgers. Also, Coach Lint is counting heavily on Dave in the 880 in track this year.

CHS will lose Dave next year though, as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mehalick, are moving to Buffalo, New York this summer.

After school, Dave plans to attend college in South Carolina. In his unoccupied moments, Dave likes to watch girls, R-rated movies, and eat.

Guidance Department Plans Night Sessions

The Guidance Department of Circleville High School will be holding evening meetings with all parents interested in learning more about the curriculum offerings and scheduling for the 1972-73 school year.

Scheduled times are as follows: Feb. 17, 7:30 p.m. — High school auditorium — for parents of students who are now

Cupid Stalks Path Of CHS Sweethearts

By DONNA A. IMLER
Who's that little guy with the bow and arrows hanging around the corridors at CHS?

Cupid, of course.

Monday is Saint Valentine's Day. Although it is not a legal holiday, it is a day to express ourselves to all our loved ones. The first observance of this day is not certain. In France and England in olden times the young people would gather for a drawing on Saint Valentine's Eve. The person's name drawn was the valentine or the sweetheart of the person who had drawn the name for that year.

Warning to all students at CHS — that little guy is getting ready for the Sweetheart Dance in March.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Mother Worried For Daughter's Safety

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you several months ago about a male relative molesting my 3-year-old girl. Your answer was to confront him with it, and get him to a doctor, fast. We had already confronted him, and of course, he denied everything. "She makes up stories," he said.

Abby, how can a 3-year-old make up stories of this kind?

I talked with the police department, and was told you cannot accuse someone of molesting without proof. How do you get proof? When the child was younger, this relative would come over and take her out for "rides" in his car, and when he brought her home, her clothes were a mess, and her diaper pins were upside down! (Abby, do you know any mothers who put diaper pins in upside down? I don't.)

That, and a dozen other incidents, is still not sufficient proof. Will they take the word of a 3-year-old against that of a grown man who is admired and respected by all? NO!

I was made to look like a hysterical mother having hallucinations. Can you now understand why each night I pray for God to take him? Only then will I have peace of mind.

DEAR DAZED: I believe you. And I promise to give you my prompt personal assistance, if you will send me your name and address.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman, just recovering from surgery. I have also had a heart attack and I am not very well. My problem is I am trying to keep from getting the flu, but I have two women friends who always kiss me when they greet me. And when I leave, they are in the habit of kissing me goodbye.

I never minded until now. But there is so much flu around that a person can't be too careful. I would feel foolish asking them not to kiss me for this reason, yet I wish they wouldn't. How can I keep them from kissing me without losing their friendship?

Please print this. I am sure others have the same problem.

SALT LAKE CITY
DEAR SALT LAKE: When they approach you, gently give them the "straight arm" and say, "Please, no kisses. One of us may have a little bug." (True, one of you may have.)

DEAR ABBY: The idea of exchanging tapes with servicemen who find writing letters tedious was a good one. Your comment that it was a good idea for those who could "afford" it caught my attention.

I suggest that both servicemen and their families contact their local U.S.O. Many USO's at home and abroad will provide tapes, recorders, and even pay the postage as a service to our men in uniform.

U.S.O. SUPPORTER
DEAR SUPPORTER: And

this might be an appropriate time to inform those who may not be aware that the U.S.O. is NOT funded by the government! It is supported entirely by public donation as a United Way or Community Fund Agency.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MASON CITY FATHER: There is little point in suddenly telling a 16-year-old son that if he ever gets into any kind of trouble to come to you first. For if the proper relationship has been built over the years, he will. And if it hasn't the words will be meaningless.

Lima School Still Closed After Violence

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Lima school officials have cancelled tonight's basketball game between Lima High School and Springfield.

Lima Senior High School has been closed since Thursday because of racial violence.

Tonight's game was to have been played on schedule with teams, coaches, officials and newsmen present, but no audience. Difficulties in locating a site were blamed for the cancellation.

The school was shut down when fighting broke out just before the start of classes. Seven students were injured and a Lima policeman suffered a heart attack while trying to bring the disturbance under control.

Of the seven students hurt, only one, Steven Rhodes, was hospitalized. He suffered a puncture wound in the chest.

The policeman, Sgt. Carl Erikson, was placed in the intensive care unit at Lima St. Rita Hospital.

It was the third time in as many years that racial violence has forced the school to close.

Officials said the disturbance was the outgrowth of racial frictions that began with the initiation of an annual Negro History Week at the school three years ago. Each year, violence has erupted just in advance of the special study week.

School Supt. Earl McGovern called the disorders a reflection of a "deep degree of bitterness" among some of the school's 1,800 students.

McGovern said school functions over the next few weeks will be "rigidly watched" and others curtailed.

Man Buried Alive At Morrow Pit

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Paul Thompson, 54, remained in fair condition at a hospital today after being buried alive Thursday at the William Odors Gravel Pit two miles east of Morrow.

Warren County Sheriff Roy Wallace said Thompson, of Morrow, had been chipping frozen gravel from a temple when it broke loose and covered him. Fellow workmen and members of the Morrow Life Squad uncovered Thompson's head within a few minutes and freed him 45 minutes later.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Our fearless forecaster, the Dillie that fills this space each Friday, has been under the weather. A dastardly spell has been cast upon him by the heathen Chinese and for two weeks he has been abed.

Mrs. Kelly has been caring for him, dosing him with potions of hot Irish tea and whiskey. Sometimes she leaves the hot Irish tea from her marvelous remedy. For an Australian Terrier, Mrs. Kelly writes a mean prescription.

Feeling completely inadequate, we hesitated to write this column for him. But too many of his fans have reported how they miss his weekly meanderings in the upper left hand corner of The Herald sports page.

We feel inadequate because we cannot begin to match his vast store of knowledge. Who else but Willie would know that the largest kidney stone reported in medical literature was one of 13 pounds and 14 ounces removed from an 80-year-old woman by Dr. Humphrey Arthure at Charing Cross Hospital, London, England on Dec. 29, 1952 . . . Or that the earliest epidemic of flu was recorded in 412 B.C. by Hippocrates . . . Or that the world's record for eating baked beans was set Feb. 1, 1970, in Staffordshire, England when eight boys from Coseley Youth Centre consumed 40 pounds of beans in 30 minutes . . . Or that tiddlywinks champion Stephen Williams of Altrincham Grammar School, England, in May, 1966, potted 24 winks from 18 inches in 21.8 seconds to set a new world's speed record in the revered sport.

And who else would be so fearless as to put these little known facts in print.

When it comes to predicting the outcome of sporting events he has no peer.

He would not hesitate to pick Joel Goldstrand to win the Bob Hope Desert Classic golf tournament. Nor would he feel the slightest remorse at proclaiming Floyd Patterson would begin a successful comeback to regain the World's Heavyweight Boxing Title by defeating Oscar Bonavena Saturday, thereby setting up a title match with champion Joe Frazier. And though he thinks that Youngstown State University has the best basketball team in the nation, he would still pick Ohio State to defeat Purdue Saturday.

And nobody has more faith in our Roundtown Roundballers and Pickaway County cagers . . . Circleville Tigers will show Greenfield McClain fans that Purple and Gold Tigers are made of paper . . . And Saturday's game with Madison Plains will be a waltz . . . The Westfall Mustangs, he would predict, will kick the Zane Trace Pioneers right out of the gymnasium at Kinnikinnick . . . And the Logan Elm Braves, having no respect for East Clinton Astros, will send them into orbit . . . The Vikings, living up to their ancient warrior namesakes, will rob and pillage the Dublin Shamrocks (although he would ask his Irish ancestors for forgiveness for making such a statement) and will do likewise with the Reynoldsburg Raiders.

Until next time, have a good day and be a good sport. And get well, Willie.

KSU Faces Toledo In Mid American

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer
"You hate to risk three losses if you want to win this thing."

Kent State basketball coach Frank Truitt, whose Flashes play at Toledo in a big assignment Saturday night, was talking about the scrambled Mid-American race.

At midseason, four of the six league members are separated by one-half game. Toledo and Ohio University lead at 4-2, Kent is 3-2 and defending champion Miami 4-3.

Ohio plays at Miami in the other crucial Mid-American game Saturday.

"The winner will have to go through the rest of the schedule unbeaten," predicted Truitt.

Kent hasn't won a basketball title in its 19 Mid-American seasons.

Toledo mentor Bob Nichols agreed with Truitt, asking, "It's a mess, isn't it?"

This is Kent's last conference road game. The Flashes finish with Miami, Western Michigan, Bowling Green and Toledo at home.

"The pressure's on us," said Nichols. "It's got more significance because of that quirk in the schedule."

Ohio, once 3-0 in the conference, seeks revenge at Miami, which dealt the Bobcats a 91-77 home loss. The Redskins must win to stay in the picture for a second straight title.

"It's our move again. We have another shot at it, providing we can win on the road," said Snyder, whose team also faces trips to Toledo and Western Michigan.

Meanwhile, seventh-ranked Ohio State faces visiting Purdue in a regionally-televised Big Ten matinee game. The defending champion Buckeyes risk their 6-2 co-leading mark with Minnesota against the Boilermakers, 3-2 in the conference.

In other major games, Bowling Green goes to 11th-ranked Marshall, Western Michigan to Dayton, Xavier to Detroit and Jacksonville to Cincinnati.

Wooster tries to stay one step ahead of defending champion Capital in the Ohio Conference.

The Scots, 8-0 to the Crusaders' 7-0, face a tough assignment at third-place Otterbein, 5-2. Capital stays home for Baldwin-Wallace, 4-4.

Other OC contests send Wittenberg to Denison, Heidelberg to Ohio Wesleyan and Mount Union to Kenyon.

Akron, No. 4 among the nation's small colleges, goes against visiting Western Illinois. The Zips fell at Gannon Wednesday night, only their third setback in 20 games.

In other contests on a 25-game Ohio college card Saturday, Ohio Northern is at Marietta, Cedarville at Malone, Defiance at Wilmington, Hiram at

Seattle Turns Back Royals 118-96 In NBA Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seattle is a problem. And Baltimore, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Cleveland haven't come up with an answer all season.

The four teams which comprise the National Basketball Association's Central Division have dropped 13 straight games to the SuperSonics this season. No. 13 came Thursday night when Seattle slapped down the Royals 118-96.

The Sonics, third in the NBA's Pacific Division, were led by Spencer Haywood, who scored 28 points. The Royals, third in the Central, got 22 points from Tom Van Arsdale and were hampered by the absence of guard Nate Archibald, out with the flu. Archibald has been averaging 35 points in the last 16 games.

In other NBA games Phoenix defeated Baltimore 131-98 and Golden State topped Philadelphia 121-112.

Kentucky beat the Floridians 119-101 and Virginia downed Pittsburgh 131-111 in American Basketball Association action.

Baltimore, playing without center Wes Unseld, out with an ankle injury, lost its sixth straight. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 27 points and Paul Silas 25. A strong Suns' defense held the Bullets to just 14 points in the second period.

Jack Marin had 24 and Archie Clark 18 for Baltimore.

Golden State, behind the 32-point performance of Nate Thurmond, rallied in the second half to overcome Philadelphia. The Warriors trailed by as much as 14 points and 36-53 at the half. Jeff Mullins added 27 for Golden State, which record its 18th victory in the last 22 games. The 76ers playing without Billy Cunningham, who has a leg injury, were led by Fred

Foster with 30 points and Bob Rule with 26.

Rookie Julius Erving scored seven points in 55 seconds to break an 82-82 third-quarter tie and pace Virginia to victory. With Erving scoring 30 points and Charlie Scott 34, the Squires outshot Pittsburgh from the floor 57 per cent to 36 per cent.

It was the Squires' fifth straight victory, their longest win streak of the season. Dave Lattin led the Condors with 28 points while Mike Lewis had 20 and John Brisker 19.

The Floridians' loss was their 15th in the last 18 games, leaving them a half game from last place in the ABA East. Dan Isel scored 28 points and Mike Gale 21 for East-leading Kentucky.

The Floridians were never really in the game as Kentucky spurred to a 26-16 lead in the first 11 minutes and never trailed. Walt Simon finished with 20 points for the Colonels. Willie Long had 23 points for Floridians and Al Tucker scored 16.

Junior High Tourney Set At McDowell

A Pickaway County Junior High basketball tournament has been scheduled Feb. 19 and 26 at McDowell Exchange Building, Logan Elm School District.

The event is sponsored by the Logan Elm Boosters Club and money from ticket sales will be distributed between the participating schools to benefit their junior high athletic programs.

Preliminary games are scheduled the afternoon of Feb. 19 with McDowell going against Monroe at 1 p.m. and Circleville playing Jackson at 3 p.m. Teays Valley Junior high has entered another tournament and will not participate.

The losers will participate in a consolation game 1 p.m. Feb. 26 and the championship game will be at 3 p.m. the same day.

Boys participating in the Logan Elm fifth and sixth grade basketball program will play at halftime and the annual foul shooting contest will be conducted between the games.

Center Bob Ross, a senior from Littleton, Colo., captains the Air Force hockey team.

U.S. MEDALIST — Dianne Holm of Northbrook, Ill., displays her gold medal which she won in the women's 1,500-meter speed skating event of the 11th Winter Olympic Games in Sapporo, Japan. The 20-year-old Dianne's time of 2 minutes, 20.85 seconds set a new Olympic record and gave the U.S. its first gold medal in the current games.

Ice Fishing Reported Good Across State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Wildlife reports the western portion of Lake Erie has six to 10 inches of good ice for fishermen, with angling good around the Bass Islands and Sandusky Bay.

Also at the big lake, Mouse Island at Catawba Peninsula and White's Landing in Sandusky Bay are producing fair numbers of yellow perch through the ice.

In Central Ohio, Indian Lake has six to 10 inches of ice with bluegill, crappie and bullheads being taken on mousies, wax worms and ice jigs. Buckeye Lake has four to six inches of ice and the eastern portion of the lake is producing bluegill on mousies and wax worms and a few yellow perch.

In Northwestern Ohio, Lima Reservoirs (Lost Creek and Ferguson) both have five to six inches of ice on the south and; yellow perch and walleye are being taken there. Good ice also reported at Wauseon Reservoir, Harrison Lake and Evergreen Lake.

Northeastern Ohio's Mogadore Reservoir has been a good spot for ice fishermen angling for crappies and bluegills. At Berlin Reservoir walleyes are hitting in 15 to 20 feet of water in ice fishing. The Chagrin River from Daniels Park north to Lake Erie is producing rainbow trout and coho salmon.

Burr Oak Lake in Southeastern Ohio is producing bluegills and bass on minnows, but fishermen are urged to use caution since the ice may be weak in some areas.

In Southwestern Ohio, Grand Lake St. Marys has four to seven inches of ice and is producing crappies and yellow perch.

Lake Lorain has three to six inches of ice and is producing bluegills and crappies. Ice fishermen also are reporting catches at Stonelick Lake and Darke Wildlife Area ponds. Ice is unsafe at Cowan Lake because of a water drawdown.

Southwest Louisiana State Rips McNeese, 95 - 83

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer
Small college or major college, it's all the same to Dwight Lamar.

The NCAA college division scoring leader last season with a 35 point average, Lamar is picked up right where he left off, even though his school, Southwestern Louisiana, has switched into the major college ranks.

Lamar — on an off night — poured in 42 points Thursday to lead Southwestern Louisiana, 7-2 and ranked 13th in the nation, to a 95-83 victory over McNeese State. The 6-foot-1 guard currently leads the nation's major college scorers with a 35.8 average.

Although Lamar's scoring has been an instrumental factor in Southwestern Louisiana's success, he has had help — much of it from center Roy Ebron, who scored 22 points and pulled down 24 rebounds against McNeese.

The Cajuns led by only 45-43 at the half and did not manage to open the game up until late in the second half. Henry Ray scored 32 points to keep McNeese close.

Southwestern Coach Beryl Shipley said he felt Lamar did not have a good game.

"Lamar didn't have a good shooting night," the coach said. "I'm glad he got 42 points, but he tried about 41 shots."

"We didn't shoot well, but it was understandable," Shipley added.

"We are coming off a five-game road trip and the boys are extremely tired."

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 5 Penn beat Columbia 69-59, No. 8 Long Beach State bowed to Fresno State 76-69 and No. 15 Memphis State was upset by St. Louis 75-72.

The Quakers jumped off to a 30-15 lead midway through the first half and managed to stay at least nine points ahead of Columbia the rest of the way. Penn, 15-2, was paced by junior forward Phil Hankinson's 21 points.

Long Beach State scored just five points in the first 10 minutes as Fresno State built up a 15-point lead. The 49ers, now 18-3, never caught up.

The game was won at the free throw line where Fresno State, 8-11, scored 23 points. Long Beach State, which saw three of its starters foul out, scored only nine points on free throws.

Clarence Metcalfe led the Bulldogs with 24 points. Ed Ratliff had 20 and Nate Stephens 18 for Long Beach.

Memphis State, trailing 37-20 at halftime, rallied in the second half but fell short of catching St. Louis.

"We just got beat," moaned Memphis Coach Gene Barlow. "We played poorly in the first half (sinking only six of 28 field goal attempts) and couldn't catch up."

Larry Finch of Memphis State, now 14-5, scored 26 points, 22 of them in the second half rally. The Billikens, 13-4, were led by Harry Rogers and Jesse Leonard, each of whom netted 21.

In other major games, Temple beat Seton Hall 71-53 and Cincinnati — getting 40 points from Derrek Dickey — whipped Rutgers 84-74 in a double-header at Madison Square Garden in New York; Brian Taylor scored 36 points to lead Princeton past Cornell 96-69 in an Ivy League battle, and a three-point play by sophomore guard Jack Kill with just 12 seconds to play lifted Dayton to a 91-90 triumph over Chicago Loyola.

Also, Assumption defeated Georgetown, D.C. 90-83. Virginia Tech pounded William & Mary 90-69, Bradley beat Drake 85-69, Tulsa edged North Texas 75-69, Houston downed Centenary 100-83, Texas-El Paso topped Colorado State 77-70. New Mexico beat Wyoming 76-64 and Seattle slipped past Portland 65-2.

Vikings Blitz Brave Frosh

The Teays Valley Viking freshmen caught Logan Elm in a second quarter cold spell and held on to whip the Braves 44-34 Thursday.

The Braves held a slim 10-9 first period edge, but canned only seven points in the second period and trailed 23-17 at the half.

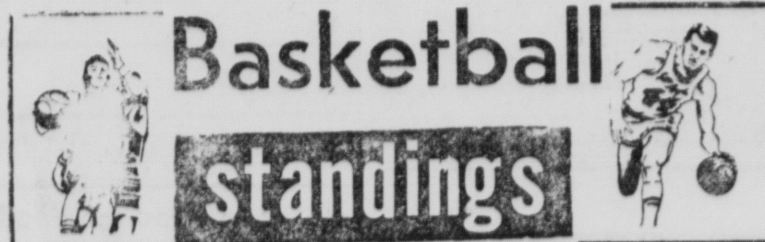

The Vikings continued their blitz to maintain a 33-24 advantage before the final quarter.

Terry Collins paced TV with 18 markers, Steve Williams had 10, Dave Glick 6, George Spaw and Chuck Glitt five each.

Derek Morris led the Braves' scoring attack with 14 points. He was followed by Mitch Martin with 9, Joe Stump with 6 and Scott Pontious with 5.

Teays Valley will play in the Mifflin Freshman Tournament. The Vikes are scheduled 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Both teams are 12-2 for the year.

And though he thinks that Youngstown State University has the best basketball team in the nation, he would still pick Ohio State to defeat Purdue Saturday.

And nobody has more faith in our Roundtown Roundballers and Pickaway County cagers. . . . Circleville Tigers will show Greenfield McClain fans that Purple and Gold Tigers are made of paper. . . . And Saturday's game with Madison Plains will be a waltz. . . . The Westfall Mustangs, he would predict, will kick the Zane Trace Pioneers right out of the gymnasium at Kinnikinnick. . . . And the Logan Elm Braves, having no respect for East Clinton Astros, will send them into orbit. . . . The Vikings, living up to their ancient warrior namesakes, will rob and pillage the Dublin Shamrocks (although he would ask his Irish ancestors for forgiveness for making such a statement) and will do likewise with the Reynoldsburg Raiders.

Until next time, have a good day and be a good sport. And get well, Willie.

KSU Faces Toledo In Mid American

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

"You hate to risk three losses if you want to win this thing," Kent State basketball coach Frank Truitt, whose Flashes play at Toledo in a big assignment Saturday night, was talking about the scrambled Mid-American race.

At midseason, four of the six league members are separated by one-half game. Toledo and Ohio University lead at 4-2, Kent is 3-2 and defending champion Miami 4-3.

Ohio plays at Miami in the other crucial Mid-American game Saturday.

"The winner will have to go through the rest of the schedule unbeaten," predicted Truitt.

Kent hasn't won a basketball title in its 19 Mid-American seasons.

Toledo mentor Bob Nichols agreed with Truitt, asking, "It's a mess, isn't it?"

This is Kent's last conference road game. The Flashes finish with Miami, Western Michigan, Bowling Green and Toledo at home.

"The pressure's on us," said Nichols. "It's got more significance because of that quirk in the schedule."

Ohio, once 3-0 in the conference, seeks revenge at Miami, which dealt the Bobcats a 91-77 home loss. The Redskins must win to stay in the picture for a second straight title.

"It's our move again. We have another shot at it, providing we can win on the road," said Snyder, whose team also faces trips to Toledo and Western Michigan.

Meanwhile, seventh-ranked Ohio State faces visiting Purdue in a regionally-televized Big Ten matinee game. The defending champion Buckeyes risk their 6-2 co-leading mark with Minnesota against the Boiler-makers, 3-2 in the conference.

In other major games, Bowling Green goes to 11th-ranked Marshall, Western Michigan to Dayton, Xavier to Detroit and Jacksonville to Cincinnati.

Wooster tries to stay one step ahead of defending champion Capital in the Ohio Conference.

The Scots, 8-0 to the Crusaders' 7-0, face a tough assignment at third-place Otterbein, 5-2. Capital stays home for Baldwin-Wallace, 4-4.

Other OC contests send Wittenberg to Denison, Heidelberg to Ohio Wesleyan and Mount Union to Kenyon.

Akron, No. 4 among the nation's small colleges, goes against visiting Western Illinois. The Zips fell at Gannon Wednesday night, only their third setback in 20 games.

In other contests on a 25-game Ohio college card Saturday, Ohio Northern is at Marietta, Cedarville at Malone, Defiance at Wilmington, Hiram at Beach State bowed to Fresno State 76-69 and No. 15 Memphis State was upset by St. Louis 75-72.

The Quakers jumped off to a 30-15 lead midway through the first half and managed to stay at least nine points ahead of Columbia the rest of the way.

Penn. 15-2, was paced by junior forward Phil Hankinson's 21 points.

Long Beach State scored just five points in the first 10 minutes as Fresno State built up a 15-point lead. The 49ers, now 18-3, never caught up.

The game was won at the free throw line, where Fresno State, 8-11, scored 23 points.

Long Beach State, which saw three of its starters foul out, scored only nine points on free throws.

Clarence Metcalfe led the Bulldogs with 24 points. Ed Ratliff had 20 and Nate Stephens 18 for Long Beach.

Memphis State, trailing 37-20 at halftime, rallied in the second half but fell short of catching St. Louis.

"We just got beat," moaned Memphis Coach Gene Barlow. "We played poorly in the first half (sinking only six of 28 field goal attempts) and couldn't catch up."

Larry Finch of Memphis State, now 14-5, scored 26 points, 22 of them in the second half rally. The Billikens, 13-4, were led by Harry Rogers and Jesse Leonard, each of whom netted 21.

In other major games, Temple beat Seton Hall 71-58 and Cincinnati—getting 40 points from Derrek Dickey—whipped Rutgers 84-71 in a double-header at Madison Square Garden in New York; Brian Taylor scored 36 points to lead Princeton past Cornell 95-69 in an Ivy League battle, and a three-point play by sophomore guard Jack Kill with just 12 seconds to play lifted Dayton to a 91-90 triumph over Chicago Loyola.

Also, Assumption defeated Georgetown, D.C. 90-83; Virginia Tech pounded William & Mary 90-69; Bradley beat Drake 85-69; Tulsa edged North Texas 75-69; Houston downed Centenary 109-83; Texas-El Paso topped Colorado State 77-70. New Mexico beat Wyoming 76-64 and Seattle slipped past Portland 63-2.

Seattle Turns Back Royals 118-96 In NBA Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seattle is a problem. And Baltimore, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Cleveland haven't come up with an answer all season.

The four teams which comprise the National Basketball Association's Central Division have dropped 13 straight games to the SuperSonics this season. No. 13 came Thursday night when Seattle slapped down the Royals 118-96.

The Sonics, third in the NBA's Pacific Division, were led by Spencer Haywood, who scored 28 points. The Royals, third in the Central, got 22 points from Tom Van Arsdale and were hampered by the absence of guard Nate Archibald, out with the flu. Archibald has been averaging 35 points in the last 16 games.

In other NBA games Phoenix defeated Baltimore 131-98 and Golden State topped Philadelphia 121-112.

Kentucky beat the Floridians 119-101 and Virginia downed Pittsburgh 131-111 in American Basketball Association action.

Baltimore, playing without center Wes Unseld, out with an ankle injury, lost its sixth straight. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 27 points and Paul Silas 25. A strong Suns' defense held the Bullets to just 14 points in the second period.

Jack Marin had 24 and Archie Clark 18 for Baltimore.

Golden State, behind the 32-point performance of Nate Thurmond, rallied in the second half to overcome Philadelphia. The Warriors trailed by as much as 14 points and 36-53 at the half. Jeff Mullins added 27 for Golden State, which record its 18th victory in the last 22 games. The 76ers playing without Billy Cunningham, who has a leg injury, were led by Fred

Foster with 30 points and Bob Rule with 26.

Rookie Julius Erving scored seven points in 55 seconds to break an 82-82 third-quarter tie and pace Virginia to victory. With Erving scoring 30 points and Charlie Scott 34, the Squires outshot Pittsburgh from the floor 57 per cent to 36 per cent.

It was the Squires' fifth straight victory, their longest win streak of the season. Dave Lattin led the Condors with 28 points while Mike Lewis had 20 and John Brisker 19.

The Floridians' loss was their 15th in the last 18 games, leaving them a half game from last place in the ABA East. Dan Issel scored 28 points and Mike Gale 21 for East-leading Kentucky.

The Floridians were never really in the game as Kentucky spurred to a 26-16 lead in the first 11 minutes and never trailed. Walt Simon finished with 20 points for the Colonels. Willie Long had 23 points for Floridians and Al Tucker scored 16.

Junior High Tourney Set At McDowell

A Pickaway County Junior High basketball tournament has been scheduled Feb. 19 and 26 at McDowell Exchange Building, Logan Elm School District.

The event is sponsored by the Logan Elm Boosters Club and money from ticket sales will be distributed between the participating schools to benefit their junior high athletic programs.

Preliminary games are scheduled the afternoon of Feb. 19 with McDowell going against Monroe at 1 p.m. and Circleville playing Jackson at 3 p.m. Teays Valley Junior high has entered another tournament and will not participate.

The losers will participate in a consolation game 1 p.m. Feb. 26 and the championship game will be at 3 p.m. the same day.

Boys participating in the Logan Elm fifth and sixth grade basketball program will play at halftime and the annual foul shooting contest will be conducted between the games.

Center Bob Ross, a senior from Littleton, Colo., captains the Air Force hockey team.

U.S. MEDALIST — Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., displays her gold medal which she won in the women's 1,500-meter speed skating event of the 11th Winter Olympic Games in Sapporo, Japan. The 20-year-old Dianne's time of 2 minutes, 20.85 seconds set a new Olympic record and gave the U.S. its first gold medal in the current games.

Ice Fishing Reported Good Across State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Wildlife reports the western portion of Lake Erie has six to 10 inches of good ice for fishermen, with angling good around the Bass Islands and Sandusky Bay.

Also at the big lake, Mouse Island at Catawba Peninsula and White's Landing in Sandusky Bay are producing fair numbers of yellow perch through the ice.

In Central Ohio, Indian Lake has six to 10 inches of ice with bluegill, crappie and bullheads being taken on mousies, wax worms and ice jigs. Buckeye Lake has four to six inches of ice and the eastern portion of the lake is producing bluegill on mousies and wax worms and a few yellow perch.

In Northwestern Ohio, Lima Reservoirs (Lost Creek and Ferguson) both have five to six inches of ice on the south and; yellow perch and walleye are being taken there. Good ice also reported at Wauseon Reservoir, Harrison Lake and Evergreen Lake.

Northeastern Ohio's Mogadore Reservoir has been a good spot for ice fishermen angling for crappies and bluegills. At Berlin Reservoir walleyes are hitting in 15 to 20 feet of water in ice fishing. The Chagrin River from Daniels Park north to Lake Erie is producing rainbow trout and coho salmon.

Burr Oak Lake in Southeastern Ohio is producing bluegills and bass on minnows, but fishermen are urged to use caution since the ice may be weak in some areas.

In Southwestern Ohio, Grand Lake St. Marys has four to seven inches of ice and is producing crappies and yellow perch.

Lake Loramie has three to six inches of ice and is producing bluegills and crappies. Ice fishermen also are reporting catches at Stonelick Lake and Darke Wildlife Area ponds. Ice is unsafe at Cowan Lake because of a water drawdown.

Bob Rosburg Sole Leader In Bob Hope Desert Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Balding Bob Rosburg, who hasn't won a major tournament in more than 10 years, scored another round for middle-aged America by taking sole possession of the lead after 36 holes of the $145,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

The 45-year-old ex-Stanford University baseball player shot a three-under-par 9 Thursday at Bermuda Dunes Country Club for a total of 136. He was one stroke ahead of his first-round co-leader, Jerry Heard, who had a 70 at the longer La Quinta Country Club course.

Four-time Desert Classic winner and defending champion Arnold Palmer, with a 68 at Eldorado Country Club, and Deane Beman were another stroke back at 137. Beman turned in the day's best score, 65 at Indian Wells Country Club.

Thirty-six players were under par going into today's third round in this unique pro-am setup being played in sunshine and temperatures near 80. Pros play in foursomes with three amateurs for 72 holes through Saturday, then play by themselves in Sunday's 18-hole finale at Indian Wells.

"I can win again, Rosburg said. "I'm saying this for the first time in five years. I'm playing well enough to win, putting well enough to win, but winning is something that just happens . . ."

Rosburg, who won the 1959 PGA championship, last picked up the winner's check at the 1961 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Freshman Tourney Set At Logan Elm

Drawings for the first annual Logan Elm invitational Freshmen basketball tournament were held Thursday pitting Logan Elm against Circleville and Westfall against Logan.

The first round of the tournament will be held at Logan Elm's Spangler Gymnasium Wednesday with LE and Circleville playing at 4 p.m. and Westfall and Logan at 5:30.

The consolation game will be 7 p.m. Feb. 18 and the finals at 8:30 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place teams. The revenue from the tournament will be divided among the four schools.

WIN a Gold Duster

and stock in a gold mine.

Your Golden Opportunity comes with a free canopy vinyl roof.

That's what you could win as 1st prize in our big "Pan for Gold" Contest. A just-out, just-great Plymouth Gold Duster, plus 100 shares of stock in a real-goin' gold mine!

If you miss 1st prize, there's second prize which is a new Gold Duster, too. And third prize packs your portfolio with 50 shares of good gold mine stock.

But win or not, just for entering our "Pan for Gold" Contest, you will automatically receive a replica of a $20 California Gold Piece.

And there's more, because you'll find your golden opportunity starts with Gold Duster itself.

This is the car that just turned a great buy into an even better buy. Because now the economy car that's just big enough, yet small enough is yours with a free canopy vinyl roof. Free on new Gold Duster! Specially equipped with whitewalls, special wheel covers, interior vinyl trim and other things we think you'll like. We can make this offer because the factory isn't charging us for the vinyl canopy roof; so we don't have to charge you. See new Plymouth Gold Duster and enter our "Pan for Gold" Contest. But hurry. Contest ends March 31.

AUTHORIZED DEALERS CHRYSLER

*Contest Rules. 1. No purchase necessary. 2. All unclaimed prizes will be awarded by random drawing from entries submitted. No cash substitutions for prizes. 3. Contest open to all licensed drivers, 18 years or older. 4. Contest closes midnight March 31, 1972. 5. Void in Washington, Wisconsin, Missouri, and where prohibited by law. 6. Winners are liable for all state and local taxes. 7. Not eligible for prizes are employees and IRS dependents of Chrysler-Plymouth Division; its dealers, advertising agencies, and Visual Services, Inc.

HEADED DRIVE — These four men were in charge of the YMCA's membership drive for 1972 which netted the organization an additional $2,000 over last year's collections. Left to right are Ben Brian, Century Club chairman; Bob Ogden, team captain; Mike Bruno, drive chairman and Sam Sberna, team captain. They were recognized for their outstanding efforts during the annual meeting.

'Y' Celebrates Winning Home, New Membership

Pickaway County's YMCA celebrated its fourth year of existence here and named new officers and board members during Wednesday evening's annual meeting and banquet.

Chairman for the 1972 term is Richard L. Davis. He succeeds Nelson Stevens who has served in that capacity for the past two years. Guests at the dinner were the featured speaker, Robert Knight, executive director of the Association of Professional Directors of YMCA's of the U.S., State Representative Myrl Shoemaker and State Senator Harry Armstrong.

During the meeting, members voted in three new members to the board of management and reelected six present members. Named to first-year terms on the board were Jake Bailey, Dr. Liggett and Jerry Leist. Boardmen renamed to their posts were Mrs. Edwin Bach Jr., Ben Brian, Paul Marshall, Fritz Jacobs, Richard Penn and Carl Zehner.

Officers for 1972 working with the new chairman Richard Davis will be: Pastor Carl Zehner, first vice president; Richard Penn, second vice president; Alan M. Trax, treasurer and Mrs. Norman Wilson, secretary, and executive director Harold Hewitt.

SCIOTO VALLEY GRANGE
The men of Scioto Valley Grange honored the ladies Tuesday night by serving a dinner to 37 members.

The ladies had their Century Cupcake Contest that night and they were used as part of the dessert. Mrs. Frank Baum, the judge, had a very difficult time deciding the winners, as follows: Mrs. Harry Speakman, first; Mrs. Harold Bumgarner, second; and Mrs. John Dowler, third.

Since the Ohio Grange is 100 years old this year many special events are being planned. We are planning a special party on March 14 and asking people to wear old fashioned clothes and to bring food that would have been used at a carry-in at that time.

George Hamrick will speak at our Grange on March 28 on Ecology.

Our inspection will be on April 11 with County Deputies Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bidwell present.

SPEAKER AND HOST — Retiring president of the Pickaway County Family YMCA Nelson Stevens, introduced Robert Knight, guest speaker at the organization's annual meeting and banquet.

Circleville Boys' Choir directed by Paul M. Dunkle and a talk by Knight on the "Y" experience for adults and youth. He noted that the YMCA's service to communities is underway in 63 countries, including the United States.

The speaker offered the idea that the effect of a YMCA on the community is what the community will permit it to have and its success is directly influenced by the support of all citizenry.

Pickaway County's family YMCA is experiencing a tremendous growth of interest with membership increasing from 354 in its initial year to 1,200 in 1971. Membership figures for the present year also show growth.

During 1971 nearly 7,000 persons enrolled in organized groups at the Y. The organization offered special camping, day camp and other special Y events for its membership.

State legislators Shoemaker and Armstrong were presented Service to Youth Awards for their work in passing an amendment to a bill giving the Circleville armory back to the city council. The awards were given by retiring President Nelson Stevens who commented that they were the Y's "thanks for saving our home." The service awards were the first of their kind to be presented by the local club.

Shoemaker brought along a file containing all the documents — including the bill and amendment and a photocopy of the 1922 deed showing that the city gave the land to the state for the armory — for the YMCA records. Armstrong noted that he was "very happy I could have a little part in helping secure the armory for the Pickaway County YMCA."

BOTH men were able to pass the amendment with a unanimous vote of both the House and Senate.

A special award and mention were given to Chuck Jolliffe in recognition for his service as chief of the Y Indian Guide Longhouse. Service awards were presented to eight volunteers. They were: Bob Ogden, Sam Sberna, Nelson Stevens, Tim Stonerock, Randy Clark, Gerry Bushyager, Paul Eastman and Tad Duemler.

Nixon . . .

John V. Lindsay, commenting on the administration's rebuff of Democratic criticism of Nixon's latest peace moves, said in Boston that Americans have a constitutional right "to speak out against the tyranny of their own government in the conduct of an unconscionable war and to force presidents and citizens alike to change course in the face of blatant folly."

YORTY: Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty said Nixon already has made too many concessions to North Vietnam. He said "Nixon gave the Communists one more concession than he should have—the $2-billion aid plan to revitalize North Vietnam. Let the Russians and Chinese provide those funds."

JACKSON: Campaigning for the March 14 Florida primary, Sen. Jackson of Washington opened a headquarters in Fort Lauderdale Thursday and proposed the United States, Russia and China simultaneously end all military aid to North and South Vietnam. "We should pull the teeth out of the Vietnam conflict," he said.

HUMPHREY: "Maybe your candidate wasn't too good" in 1968, Humphrey told a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., labor gathering. Humphrey, who was the Democratic standard-bearer, said the party had its family fight in 1968 and some Democrats didn't work for his election. "But this time I'll fight for you and I think you'll be at my side when I need you."

Humphrey said Nixon has made labor "the scapegoat of our problems," including inflation and unemployment.

MUSKIE: "The United States should adopt a comprehensive federal strategy with the 'single objective of stamping out drug abuse in America,'" the Maine senator said in a speech for a Manchester, N.H., high school. He said addiction is undermining the U.S. armed forces and is the cause of at least half of all urban crime. Muskies said he favors a program to guarantee drug-addicted veterans treatment regardless of the status of their discharge or whether the addiction is service-connected.

HARTKE: Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., criticized Nixon administration attacks on Vietnam war critics as an exhumation of "the old technique of Joe McCarthy. He said repression of criticism is 'the ultimate tool of an unsure and timorous government and we are seeing it today.'"

ASHBROOK: Ohio Republican Rep. John M. Ashbrook, who is challenging Nixon in the New Hampshire and Florida primaries, said the President has not followed through with his promises of 1968 to keep the United States tops in quantity and quality of strategic weapons.

2 Suits Demand State Pay Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two court actions were initiated Thursday seeking to force Ohio to begin immediate payment of salary increases granted state employees by the legislature.

Both suits contend Ohio is required by the constitution to pay state employees in accordance with statutory salary schedules.

Emergency legislation enacted by the General Assembly last month and signed into law by Gov. John Gilligan awarded state and university employees and county welfare workers a 10 per cent, across-the-board pay hike.

Emergency legislation takes effect immediately.

But the state has withheld payment of the increases until the Pay Board in Washington rules on the 10 per cent figure, which is well above the 5.5 per cent Phase Two guidelines set by the board.

One suit was filed in the 16th District Court of Appeals by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

The other was taken to the Ohio Supreme Court by the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association (OCSEA).

Identical legal arguments were cited.

But OCSEA Executive Secretary James Marshall also argued the central issue was really whether the Pay Board had the power to usurp the sovereignty of the state in matters involving the state constitution.

He pointed to a number of guidelines variances already agreed to by the board dealing with pay increases above the 5.5 per cent level.

The Pay Board has said increases above that level are warranted when an increase is long overdue, or is justified to help one group of employees catch up with comparable workers elsewhere, or is for "vital" workers.

Marshall said Ohio workers qualify under all three standards.

"They have not had a raise since October of 1970," he said, "they are among the lowest-paid in all 50 states, and who could be more vital than mental hospital attendants, highway patrolmen or snow removal crews, for example?"

Herschel Sigall, executive director of Council 21 of the AFSCME said state employees now are being paid under a statute rendered obsolete by enactment of the new legislation.

"We are simply asking the state and its officials to do their duty...as they are charged by the state constitution," he said. "They have no discretion."

Sigall called the situation "intolerable." With the start of withholdings for the new state income tax, he said, the already underpaid state employees have in effect taken a cut in their pay since the first of the year.

Sigall said he would be in Washington today to appear before a committee of the Pay Board to underscore the "urgency" of the Ohio situation.

The board earlier suggested informally that the state consider withdrawing its 10 per cent request and submit a 7 per cent raise instead, but state officials balked at the idea.

Toronto Police Officers Find Familiarity Pays Off

TORONTO (AP) — Some policemen in this city of two million are strolling around in bright sweaters and flared pants. They consider the word "pig" almost a term of endearment.

In Toronto, the mod squad is for real. Community service officers, or CSOs, are mixing with minority groups, tenants, teen-agers and gangs in an effort to bridge the gap between police and public.

The key word is talking, a relic from the cop-on-the-beat days when cities were smaller, says Jack Ackroyd, deputy chief of police.

"It's important that we learn to listen to people who are openly critical or hostile," he observes. "They're precisely the ones with whom relations need to be improved."

There is at least one in each of the city's 20 police divisions. Sometimes they shoot pool or have a beer with residents in their assigned area.

Such familiarity pays off. Bob Coughlin, a one-time uniformed officer who had trouble handling tough kids and drunks, went to investigate a disturbance after joining the CSOs. He ended up being worked over by a gang of toughs.
